FOREWORD

Although since the beginning of history, foreign travellers and historians have recorded the principal marts and entrepôts of commerce in India and have even mentioned important festivals and fairs and articles of special excellence available in them, no systematic regional inventory was attempted until the time of Dr Francis Buchanan-Hamilton in the beginning of the nineteenth century. One of the tasks set before him by a resolution of the Governor-General-in-Council in 1807 was "to examine with as much accuracy as local circumstances will admit". "an account of the various kinds and amount of goods manufactured in each district the ability of the country to produce the raw materials used in them how the necessary capital is procured, the situation of the artists and manufacturers, the mode of providing their goods . . . commerce. the quantity of goods exported and imported in each district, the manner of conducting sales, especially at fairs and markets"

That he discharged his duty very thoroughly will appear from his statistical accounts of Mysore and the northern districts of Bengal and Bihar

The great Revenue Surveys of the middle of the nineteenth century made no attempt in this direction, and accounts of fairs and festivals in districts were neglected until W. W. Hunter took up the compilation of statistical accounts again in the last quarter of last century. For the purpose of notifying holidays in the East India Company's offices the Board in Calcutta had since 1799 been in the habit of "procuring an accurate Bengalee almanac properly authenticated by brahmanical astronomy" from the Nabadwip Court (letter from Secretary of Board to Collector of Nadiya, 5 July 1799, No 8217, W W Hunter's Unpublished Bengalee MSS Records). Satis Chandra Vidyabhusan in his History of Indian Logic wrote that "almanacs were prepared by the Pundit Samaj of Nabadwip which were supplied to the Nawab's Court of Murshidabad as well as to the East India Company, the Supreme Court, etc. the Nabadwip Panjika under the imprimatur of Nabadwipadhipatanugya was accepted by all the landlords of Bengal". This Nabadwip Panjika which remained the standard almanac for Bengal continued in use throughout the first half of the nineteenth century and each issue contained a list of important fairs and festivals in every district. A valuable almanac was that published by the Vernacular Literature Committee's Almanac published in 1855-6 (1262 BS). It gave an account of 309 famous fairs of Bengal in its second part. The Gupta Press Panjika or almanac which virtually replaced Nabadwip Panjika made its first appearance in 1869 and continued to publish a useful list of important fairs and festivals in the country. But this list was by no means exhaustive nor were W W. Hunter's which he published with each Statistical Account.

Meanwhile native crafts, industries and objects of artistry decayed rapidly and thoroughly as a result of the East India Company's policy of extinguishing them, and official interest in fairs and festivals declined, although these occasions, divested of much of their glory, still continued to attract livestock, grain, merchandise and handicrafts from far and near. The Imperial Gazetteers published between 1880 and 1910 gave a minor place to these important seasonal markets or temporary inland ports. Even the District Gazetteers, which still are the fullest and most compact accounts of districts, make but casual mention of fairs and festivals in the county and attach little economic importance to them.

For, indeed, the importance of fairs and festivals—as the meeting ground of livestock and agricultural commodities of many religions and many cultures, crafts and motifs from far and near, of ideas and design, workmanship, excellence and finish, of tools and appliances, of trends of the future and vanishing practices of the past, of adaptability and local variation, of skill and imagination — declined with the punitive export policy of the East India Company and the unrestricted import of machine-made goods, so much so that at the close of the last century fairs and festivals were reduced to a matter of concern only for the Public Health Department. They were no longer regarded as important centres of trade and commerce, but were now from the Government point of view merely a collection of human beings among whom epidemics were to be prevented from breaking out. Fairs and festivals continued to be a matter of law and order and the Police Department and the District Board continued to maintain full lists of them in their local offices, a source which has so far remained unquarried.

Following the census operations of West Bengal in 1951, a slim volume, containing a list of fairs and festivals arranged according to districts and their Police Stations, was brought out as part of the West Bengal scheme of Census Publications. This list was mainly made up of information supplied by District Boards and Superintendents of Police of districts. The two lists were collated to make up a comprehensive list containing several columns: the name of the village arranged under its district and Police Station, with its Jurisdiction List number, the name of the festival or fair by which it is commonly known in the locality, the English month of the year in which it is held, the duration of the festival or fair, and finally the number of persons attending it. Although merely a list, and not quite complete at that, this volume attracted attention and received the appreciation both of scholars and the general public. Its general value lay in its being a compendium and its particular value lay in presenting a distribution throughout the country of particular festive occasions. The Superintendent of Census Operations for West Bengal, who continued in an honorary capacity, was pestered from time to time with requests to undertake an extensive survey of subjects which seemed to accord well with the Superintendent's own personal desire. For one thing, quite a few of the old and traditional fairs and festivals of West Bengal are on their way to extinction on account of various forces working against them and a record of these rapidly vanishing fairs and festivals could be made only now as never again in the future. In the next place, the Census Office considered it its duty to sustain by a more searching survey the interest that the publication had aroused.

A different approach suggested itself as the new task was viewed in terms of collection of extensive first-hand material on each fair and festival. It was necessary therefore, in the first place, to approach as many individuals as possible in each locality, and not restrict the enquiry only to Government or semi-Government sources, Departments or organisations. In the second place, a satisfactory questionnaire was considered most essential. A number of aims were kept in view in framing the questionnaire. These were.

(a) The questionnaire should be very simple and precise in language, designed primarily for the understanding of a person of primary education standard. At the same time, the question should be suggestive enough to invite ancillary information. Were this objective achieved, it should be possible to obtain exhaustive information without irrelevant detail.

(b) It should succeed in obtaining a clear environmental, social and economic background of the village or place in which a particular fair is held or a festival is observed.

(c) It should emphasise those aspects of a festival or worship which would bring out the details of rituals and religious practices peculiar to the locality.

(d) It should obtain information not only on the more important and better-known festivals or fairs, but also on the less known but otherwise significant fairs and festivals. It was decided to extend the scope of enquiry beyond those fairs and festivals that are approved and licensed by the District authorities, for the latter would be a small number compared to the total.

(e) It should attempt sufficient information on economic activities and patterns in respect of each fair, however big or small. The information so obtained should suggest the scope for studying the movement of local handiwork and local forms and raw materials. The questionnaire should also give a list of local amusements favoured by the public.

The questionnaire which was several times pre-tested was finally mailed in 1957 to about 10,000 addresses in West Bengal on the Business Reply scheme. One of the devices which seems to have evinced much responsible reporting was the assurance that each piece of information would be fully acknowledged to the correspondent whose address also would be published for the benefit of future investigators.

The information thus collected was sorted district by district and further sub-sorted by Police Stations. The work of compilation, once the preliminary verification and checking of the answers was over, was to be in three sections as follows. —

(a) The first section was to contain systematic information on the village, the villagers, their occupations, communications and other special features, mainly based on Section A of the questionnaire.

(b) The second section was to contain all available information on the festival itself, the worship of deities, particularly rituals and forms of worship. This would be based mainly on Section B of the questionnaire.

(c) The third section, to be based on Section C of the questionnaire, would contain information about the fair and economic activity and amusement connected with the fair.

It will doubtless be a matter of great satisfaction to scholars that the scheme was very enthusiastically received by all my colleagues when its outline together with the West Bengal questionnaire was circulated in February 1960. My colleagues felt that the Census provided a unique opportunity for conducting such a comprehensive survey with the help of the network of staff placed by the State Governments at their disposal. State Superintendents were quick to recognise that such a survey would be of great help to those who might care to investigate the religious centres and festivals, inland trade and commerce, art motifs and designs, circuits of trade, ancient trade routes and special manufactures. It would give the student of toponymy much valuable clue and the student of history much valuable insight into the organisation of markets.

The proposal to conduct this survey was accepted in the Second Conference of Census Superintendents held in August 1960. Various aspects of the survey, then in progress, were discussed again in the regional meetings of Census Superintendents held in Trivandrum, Darjeeling and Shimla in May and June 1961. My colleagues were able to report further progress at the Census Social Studies Camp held in December 1961, when several elaborations of the original questionnaire and in investigational methodology were also discussed. It was further proposed to undertake more intensive surveys of a small number of very important fairs and festivals in each State. At the third Conference of Census Superintendents in February 1962, my colleagues took the further decision to prepare maps of fairs and festivals on the basis of districts and even of tehsil or taluks, some States having already made much progress in this direction.

The scholar will find in these lists much to excite his curiosity. First, they show what an extensive network of seasonal and perennial markets, village fairs still provide to native craftsmanship and industry. Secondly, they help to connect economic streams with social and religious movements. Thirdly, they suggest how a succession of small fairs in a time series culminate in a very big fair, almost always in the heart of a particular area, and how this big event gradually subsides through another time series of small fairs, so that an endless cycle of trade, social and religious intercourse is kept in motion. Fourthly, they insinuate a great deal about what Buchanan-Hamilton was charged to investigate a century and half ago: "the situation of the artists and manufacturers, the mode of providing their goods, the usual rate of their labour, and any particular advantages they may enjoy, their comparative affluence with respect to the cultivators of the land, their domestic usages, the nature of their sales, and the regulations respecting their markets." Fifthly, they can very greatly help in reconstructing ancient and not so ancient trade routes in the country, and, again, what Buchanan-Hamilton was asked to investigate; "the nature of the conveyance of goods by land and water, and the means by which this may be facilitated, especially by making or repairing roads."

P R E F A C E

I must acknowledge that the inspiration for attempting a survey of Fairs and Festivals of Andhra Pradesh came from a note that the Registrar General of India, Sri Ashok Mitra, circulated on the efforts he made to bring out a compendium of Fairs and Festivals of West Bengal, following on the 1951 Census.

The Survey was somewhat ambitious in scope. It was proposed to make a complete and comprehensive collection of information on every fair and festival celebrated in all the villages and towns of the State. The fairs and festivals celebrated by the community in different areas truly reflect our culture, history and tradition. In the present tempo of change of the ways and values of life, several of the ancient institutions and practices were fast disappearing or falling into disuse. Before man's memory would completely lose traces of these important links in the cultural history of the people, it was felt that it would greatly help if a record was made, to the extent possible, of all the fairs and festivals conducted even in the remotest villages, forests or hills of the State and give whatever account that could be obtained on their significance, the description of the deities, the details of the ritual etc., connected with every festival. There could not be a more opportune occasion than the Census to launch on a scheme such as this when it would be possible to reach the nooks and corners of the State through the Census Organisation. A questionnaire was finalised in advance on the advice of the Registrar General. The questionnaire forms (given as an Annexure to this preface) together with an appeal which is reproduced below were distributed amongst the Census enumerators to be answered and returned.

"I am sure you will agree with me that there are big gaps in our knowledge of our own country. It is a vast land with different regions, each having peculiar customs and cultures which if studied would reveal a more comprehensive picture of our ancient land. Coming to our own State, Andhra Pradesh, we must admit that half the State is not fully conversant with the details of habits, customs and languages of the other half. Each bit has its own beauty and variety to reveal in the form of hitherto unexplored knowledge to the other half.

It is my endeavour during the Census Operations of 1961 to study different aspects of the culture and civilisation of the people of the entire State and publish in one common volume an integrated account of what now forms the population of Andhra Pradesh. As part of the studies of 1961 Census I am presently engaged in a survey of fairs and festivals of Andhra Pradesh for which detailed and exhaustive information is being collected. The material so collected will be compiled and edited in a volume to be published by the Census Office. In order to obtain a complete picture of festivals and worship of Gods and Goddesses all over Andhra Pradesh, it is imperative that we should obtain as detailed information as possible about all fairs and festivals that are observed throughout the year in every village of Andhra Pradesh. I shall be much obliged if you will be good enough to help me in the collection of information on festivals and worship of Gods and Goddesses observed throughout the year in your village/town in the questionnaire enclosed.

I trust you will agree that if we should succeed in obtaining full information for each and every village of Andhra Pradesh, I shall have prepared a volume remarkable for its high degree of thoroughness and comprehensiveness. Such a volume will be of very great importance to many types of scholars. But this aim cannot be achieved without your help and co-operation. I am aware that you are already under heavy pressure of your own work and responsibilities. Nevertheless, I believe that you will not hesitate to undertake this burden in order to help me to obtain a full and truthful picture of our own country. I shall gratefully acknowledge your honorary labour by keeping the information permanently recorded under your name as the correspondent and shall be obliged if you will be good enough to send me your reply directly by post or through the Census enumerator who visits your house or the Tahsildar of your taluk."

The enumerators were mostly village school teachers or in a few cases village officers. They had local knowledge of the area they were covering. The Census Charge Superintendents were requested to issue the fairs and festivals questionnaire to the enumerators at one of the training classes and collect them back at a subsequent training class or at the end of the enumeration period after the enumerators had answered the questionnaires on the basis of their personal knowledge and by local inquiries. The appeal was also addressed to various other authorities such as the Commissioner of Hindu Religious Endowments Board, Municipal Commissioners, Executive Officers of Panchayats Boards etc., Lists of recognised and scheduled fairs and festivals for which special arrangements are made annually were also obtained from the District Collectors, District Superintendents of Police and District Health Officers etc. A press release was also issued announcing the scheme and appealing to all interested to send whatever information they could.

The response was most encouraging. About 15,000 questionnaires were returned filled. The quality of the replies of course varied from 'excellent' to 'indifferent' depending on the interest that the correspondent himself had in an enquiry of this nature. By and large there was evidence of the considerable trouble that the Census enumerator took to ascertain first hand, the details of the fairs and festivals in each village. All this meant extra effort outside the normal Census duties of the enumerators. I cannot certainly claim that the survey was complete and comprehensive in every detail. There may have been several fairs and festivals that escaped the notice of the enumerator or about which the information he was able to gather and present scanty. But it can certainly be claimed that whatever information that has been gathered at the survey was authentic and served as a mine of knowledge about little known things in the life of the community. There are innumerable religious festivals connected with certain Gods and Goddesses of particular significance in particular areas, there are festivities in commemoration of historical and legendary heroes, there are interesting and inspiring anecdotes connected with various saints that walked our land whose samadhus have continued to be places of worship and veneration to this day and had greatly influenced the life of the people in certain areas; the holy rivers had their own legends and beliefs attached, a variety of curious and interesting rituals of worship are practised. The present survey has helped to present all these in the form of a compendium.

The filled up questionnaires were sorted out district-wise and then taluk-wise. Rejecting those in which the information was either extremely scanty or insignificant, whatever information that could be collected from other answers was compiled into a short note or monograph for each village or town. An acknowledgement is made to the correspondent or source that provided the information at the end of the compilation for each village. These compendia will be presented in twenty volumes, one for each district. These will form a part of the 1961 Census series of publications. All the Census publication series of Andhra Pradesh State will bear a common Volume No II (the All India Series being allotted Volume No I) and the Fairs and Festivals reports of this State will form Part VII-B of Volume II i.e., the Andhra Pradesh series of Census publications. Part VII-B will bear serial numbers within brackets which will correspond to the location code number of the district covered by the volume. The location code numbers adopted for the districts are

No 1	Srikakulam District
No 2	Visakhapatnam District
No 3	East Godavari District
No 4	West Godavari District
No 5	Krishna District
No 6	Guntur District
No 7	Nellore District
No 8	Chittoor District
No 9	Cuddapah District
No 10	Anantapur District
No 11	Kurnool District
No 12	Mahbubnagar District
No 13	Hyderabad District
No 14	Medak District
No 15	Nizamabad District
No 16	Adilabad District
No 17	Karimnagar District
No 18	Warangal District
No 19	Khammam District
No 20	Nalgonda District

In each volume, the matter is arranged taluk wise. At the beginning of the compendium of each taluk, a pictorial map indicating the location of the village where a fair or festival is held, the name of the deity and the period of the fair or festival is shown. The serial number of each village covered in the compendium is indicated in the map for easy reference. It may, however, be cautioned that the pictures given on the map may not exactly represent the actual deity existing in the village. The pictures are only symbolic.

The note covering each village will first give the location of the village, the composition of population, and legend, if any, connected with the village, a list of temples or other places of worship in the village and a description of the deities and it then relates the details of the fair and festival, if any, celebrated in the village. It is not as though each temple and deity will necessarily have a festival connected with it. Only those important festivals and fairs that are celebrated by the community are therefore described

taluk-wise statement of the fairs and festivals

The dates of the festival in the compilation are mostly given in terms of Telugu calendar in vogue in the area, as recorded by the correspondents. The Telugu calendar, as in Bengal, follows the lunar month consisting of 30 lunar days, beginning on the day of the new moon. The following statement gives the Telugu months and the corresponding period as per the English calendar

LIST OF TELUGU MONTHS WITH THEIR CORRESPONDING ENGLISH MONTHS

TELUGU MONTHS	ENGLISH MONTHS
Chaitram	March-April
Vaisakham	April-May
Jaisitham	May-June
Ashadham	June-July
Sravanam	July-August
Bhadrapadam or Bhadra	August-September

Kartikam	October-November
Margasiram	November-December
Pushyam or Pausa	December-January
Magham	January-February
Phalgunam	February-March

At the end of the compilation of each district the following are appended

- (1) A calendar of common festivals celebrated in the district together with their description,
- (2) A taluk-wise statement of all the fairs and festivals,
- (3) A taluk-wise list of markets and shandies, and
- (4) A month-wise list of fairs connected with the festivals. This was culled from the

The last two lists throw light on the significant role played by the fairs and festivals in the economic life of the people, the traditional trade routes, the nature of articles sold, and the trend of trade, etc.

The extraction of information from the filled in questionnaires was entrusted to Sri M K Nagappa, a retired District Registrar, who had a special aptitude for the work, whom I selected in consultation with the Commissioner of Hindu Religious Endowments Board and appointed as a Research Assistant in my office. Information was also gathered from other published literature, district gazetteers, articles published in newspapers and journals, such as 'Aradhana' and 'Andhra Prabha Weekly' etc. The Research Assistant also conducted local enquiries in a few cases.

I wish to record my thanks to the host of Census enumerators for their fullest co-operation and the unstinted trouble taken by them in collecting the information on the prescribed questionnaire purely as a labour of love. I wish to also thank the various other officials and non-officials such as the Executive Officers of the temples etc., who assisted me in compiling the information. I place on record my appreciation of hard and sustained services of my Deputy Superintendents Sairavasri K Purushotham Naidu, M. A., K V N Gowd, B Com., (Hons.) and S Ashok Kumar, B Sc., LL B., for helping me in finalising the questionnaire and monographs. The Tabulation Officer, Sri P Pattayya, the Section Head, Sri Y Ranganna, the Research Assistant, Sri M K Nagappa and the Upper Division Clerk, Sri S Ananda Thirtha have also been of assistance in bringing out this volume. My office Artist Sri M Krishnaswamy, assisted by Kumari Aravinda Chamarur has produced the Fairs and Festivals maps and other illustrations. The printing was ably supervised by Sri P. A. Krupanandam, Supervisor.

11. Kondapur—Situated at a distance of 4½ miles from the Peddapur bus stage on Hyderabad-Bombay road. The Peddapur stage is at a distance of 7 miles from Sangareddy and 38 miles from Hyderabad. A cart track branches off to the village from the main road.

Kondapur has become prominent on account of the several archaeological findings excavated on one of the mounds near the village in the year 1940. A well organised site-museum maintained by the Government of India preserves the various types of relics discovered here. They pertain to the period of the Satavahanas (75 B.C. to 225 A.D.) who ruled the Trans-Vindhyan India extending to the Krishna in the South, Malwa and Kathiawar in the North with their capital at Pratishthana (Paithan) in Aurangabad District. The following excerpts from the publications of the Archaeological Survey are of interest here, throwing light on the very advanced civilisation and culture that flourished in this area nearly 2000 years ago.

"The Western end of the mound shows a Stupa 15' in diameter in the middle of a courtyard paved with brick and concrete, and traces of some cells and a small Chaitiya Hall.

There are six underground chambers (three of them double chambers with a partition wall in the centre) ranging in depth from 5 ft. to 25 ft. These are built of neat courses of brick laid in mud with the bottom paved with bricks laid flat or with small stones fixed evenly to the ground. Since these chambers contained comparatively valuable articles like coins with their mounds, seals, terracotta figurines, beads, and ornaments of gold and other materials, it may be presumed that these are depositories or underground chambers for safe custody of valuables."¹

"The pottery discovered at Kondapur consist of plain saucers and chatties of ordinary domestic use,

'ornamented pots, urns, incense burners and vases exhibiting potter's skill of a high order.' The sizes vary from the small ones with 18" to 20" in circumference and 7" in height to the large ones with 9 ft. in circumference and 3 ft. in height. The symbols on this pottery are Triratna, lotus design (in some cases full blown lotus), and Dharmachakra."²

"It appears that some of these pieces of pottery were very costly or they were held in great regard for their religious or other associations. This is evident from the fact that many of these pieces when they broke or cracked, iron joints with rivets were applied to them. The holes were bored in the broken pieces with considerable skill, then joints were placed on both the sides of the fragments and nails were carefully riveted. In one case it appears that joints were riveted in order to check the further progress of a crack. So far as I know Kondapur alone has presented this novel feature of ancient pottery. The iron joints, though considerably disintegrated in some cases, still preserve their original shape and size. Wherever they have disappeared, we can clearly see the holes which must have been skilfully bored with a sharp iron drill."³

"Iron implements and weapons such as sickles, forks, hoes, knives, spear heads, chisels and nails (some of them corroded badly through the effect of moisture in the ferrous soils of Kondapur, so typical of parts of Deccan) and furnaces already alluded to and large earthen water basins (possibly for cooling the metal) found in such large numbers suggests considerable skill and experience in smithy work.

Hollow figurines of Kaolin made in moulds (in two or more parts joined and fired) have been found in considerable quantities.

About 2000 beads made of lapis lazuli, carnelian, onyx, jade, rock-crystal, amethyst, glass, shell and clay of a great variety of shapes and sizes have been found at Kondapur. In ancient times the Deccan was noted for its bead industry as testified to by the great number of beads found at Paithan and Maski besides Kondapur."⁴

Thus, the village Kondapur is associated with immense archaeological importance sharing honours with such other sites in Andhra Pradesh as Nagarjunakonda and Amaravati in Guntur District.

The total population of the village is 2,055 and it is made up of the following communities: Caste Hindus—Reddy, Goundla, Balija, Golla, Tenugu, Chakali, Mangah, etc., Scheduled Castes (226)—Mala, Madiga, Muslims and Christians. The chief means of livelihood of the people are agriculture,

The temples of Hanuman, Manikya Prabhu and Sangameswaraswamy and of village deities Durgamma and Pochamma, and a mosque are the places of worship in the village. There are also the dagas of Maibub Subhani, Khaja Bande Nawaz and a peela chavdi in the village. There is a picture of Manikya Prabhu in that temple and the village deity Durgamma is represented by a stone image of 5' height in human form. There is a Sivalingam in Sangameswaraswamy temple.

Durgamma Jatara is celebrated for one day in Ashadham (June-July) once in 2 or 3 years, according to the convenience of the villagers. The devotees take bath in the local tank and offer coconuts and fruits to the deity. Sheep and fowls are sacrificed in fulfilment of vows. About 500 people of all communities, local and from the neighbouring villages, participate in the festival. The pujari is a Goundla. Prasadam is distributed to all.

A few shops are open in this connection selling eatables, coconuts, bangles, etc.

Bhajans are performed in the Manikya Prabhu temple every Friday by the local devotees. Payasam, prepared by the villagers through subscriptions, is offered as navedam in Hanuman temple in Savanam (July-August) during the years when rains fail and is distributed to all as prasadam.

13. Sangareddy—Headquarters of Medak District situated at a distance of 12 miles from the Sankarpalle Railway Station on Wadi-Hyderabad line of the Central Railway and 37 miles from Hyderabad.

The Devis of Papannapet ruled over this place and their descendants are still receiving pension from the Government. During the reign of Sankaramma several forts were constructed. The first was the Sankarampeta fort from where Sankaramma ruled. Allamaiah Chowdary, one of her subordinates, constructed the forts at Andole, Sangareddy and Sadasipet in Sangireddy Taluk. A portion of the fort and the stone gateways on the four sides can still be seen there.

The total population of the town is 10,650 and it is made up of the following communities: Caste Hindus—Brahmin, Vaisya, Khatri, Kumari, Kammara, Yerpula, Mangali, Chakali, Bondli, Vadrangi, Scheduled Castes (1,266)—Mala, Madiga, Muslims and Christians. The chief means of livelihood of the people are agriculture, agricultural labour and other traditional occupations.

Manikya Prabhu temple with the photo of the saint and the idol of Dattatreya, Fathekhan Hajrath Dargi, the temples of Sri Rama, Anjaneya, Narsimha, Vitaleswara, Sangameswara, Venkateswara, Basavanna and Durgamma, a mosque and a church are the places of worship in this town. Dokkalamma, Durgamma and Yellamma are also worshipped. Situated in the centre of the tank is a temple of Siva where Sivalingam is worshipped on Mahasivaratri.

Durgamma Jatara is celebrated for 4 days from Bhadrapada Bahula Tathya (August-September). Ganga thevadam is the inaugural function of the Jatara. On the first day the pujari accompanied by few devotees goes to Manjeera river, one and a half miles from the town with a usie. On the next day a he-buffalo intended for sacrifice is taken to the river where after worshipping Gangadevata (water Goddess) the buffalo is washed and decorated with pasupu (turmeric), kumkum (vermilion) and neem leaves and brought to the temple in a procession to the accompaniment of music. The water brought from the river is used for the worship of the devata. The next day the buffalo is sacrificed before the deity. Later the devotees sacrifice buffaloes, goats, rams and fowls. At 3 o'clock the ground is sprinkled with cowdung water and decorated with misgulu (designs drawn with rice flour). At this spot a heap of cooked rice and mutton is kept as offering to the deity. This rice and mutton is distributed to the servants of the temple. Then an unbaked earthen pot is buried upto its neck and a winnow placed over it. A woman of the Yerpula caste who sits on the winnow gets possessed and predicts the future events. The day closes with gavu pattuta. One person representing Pothuraju, brother of Duigamma and other grama devatas, is smeared with pasupu and kunkum and decorated with few neem leaves round his head, neck and waist. Carrying a lamb, he goes round the temple five times and bites the throat of the lamb. He is believed to be possessed. Cold water is poured over his head and toddy offered to him. On the third day the devotees go round the temple 5 times with bonalu (cooked rice kept in earthen vessels or winnows with a burning lamp kept on it). Carts and bullocks are decorated with flowers and coloured saris and taken round the temple. This is an ancient festival confined to the town and a few neighbouring villages. The people of the town, particularly of the locality, contribute funds and celebrate the festival. About 2,000 Hindus and Muslims of the town and a few from neighbouring villages congregate. Pujari is a Bondi. Prasadam is distributed on the bonala day.

Fatekhan Hayrath Urs is celebrated for 3 days during Rajab (November—December). On the first day the darga is decorated with dots of sandal paste and flowers and on the second day the flag of the saint is taken out on a horse back to the accompaniment of music. Devotees liquidate their vows on this day by worshipping the darga and offering fruits, flowers and cash. Display of fire works is done on a large scale. Quavali (singing in praise of the saint) is the main function on the third day. Musicians from Bedar and Hyderabad take part in this function. The patrons are Muslims and Hindus. About 800 Muslims from Sangareddy and its neighbouring villages congregate. The priest is a Muslim. More than 1,000 persons are fed on the third day. The managers of this Urs celebrate Moharram on a big scale which attracts a huge gathering of about 5,000 Hindus and Muslims from the neighbouring villages.

A fair is held on both the occasions. About 20 shops sell fruits, flowers, eatables and fancy goods and about 50 shops from Hyderabad, Zahirabad and Bedar sell eatables, utensils, clothes, glassware and fancy goods.

Sri Rama Kalyanam is celebrated in Sri Rama temple for 3 days from Chaitra Suddha Navami (March—April). The birth of Lord Rama is celebrated on Navami and Kalyanothsavam (Marriage function) on Dasami. The function culminates with the procession of the Lord in a palanquin and vasanthotsavam on Ekadasi. This is an ancient festival confined to the town. About 600 Hindus take part in the festival. The pujari is a Brahmin and prasadam in the form of pannakam and pannam are distributed to all on Navami.

Sri Manikya Prabhu Jayanthi is celebrated with great devotion for 5 days annually in Manikya Prabhu Mandiram (temple). Manikya Prabhu is believed to be the incarnation of Dathathreya and is called Daththavathara Marthanda Manikya Prabhu. He is also considered as Sakalamatha Sthapitha Marthanda Manikya Prabhu as He is believed to represent the Trinity (Brahma, Vishnu and Siva) in one.

One day Narada narrated to Saraswati, Mahalakshmi and Parvati, the divine consorts of Brahma, Vishnu and Siva respectively the greatness of Anasuya, the reputed pathivraatha (devoted wife) and wife of Athri Mahamuni, and told them that there is nothing impossible for her. On hearing this the divine consorts became sore and wanted to foil her pathivrathyam. They forced their husbands to foil the pathivrathyam of Anasuya. The Trinity approached Anasuya in the guise of mendicants when her husband was away and requested for food. When she was about to serve food they insisted that she should serve the food nude and threatened that they would decline her hospitality if she failed to do so. Anasuya was at first perplexed. Soon she could discern who they were and why they made such an abominable request. She turned them into little babies and fed them. She restored them to their original form only when the divine consorts begged her to pardon, acknowledging her superiority over them in pathivraathyam. When Athri Mahamuni came to know of this incident he granted a boon to Anasuya according to which the Trinity would be reborn as her son. The result was the birth of the three faced Daththathreya representing the Trinity in one. Manikya Prabhu believed to be the incarnation of Daththathreya was born in Kalyani, about 24 miles from Gulbarga, now in Mysore State, and previously in the erstwhile Nizam's dominion. Manohara and Bayadevi, an issueless couple, worshipped Lord Parameswara with great devotion and begot a son who was dumb. Even as a child he spent most of his time in retirement and silent prayers. This Brahmin boy began to speak fluently soon after upanayanam and upadesam of Gayathri mantham. He was named Dadabai and became the student of one Sadanandaswamy who informed the parents about the greatness of the boy as a royi in his previous birth and advised them to perform Daththathreya charitha pavanam (reading of the life of Daththathreya) for 16 years and arrange Brahmana samaradhana (feeding the Brahmins) at the end.

At the end of the sixteenth year Lord Daththathreya appeared before Bayadevi in a dream with His four dogs, kampinam (loin cloth) and jole (beggar's bowl) and revealed to her that He would be born as her son. Bayadevi became pregnant and several women including Hiriya, Muslims and Christians began to visit her in scores everyday with presents of flowers, fruits and choicest sweets. The news about the devoted couple and the birth of a boy spread far and wide and soon reached the ears of the ruling Nawab of Kalyani. Strangely enough, the Nawab developed so great a reverence to the new born child that he paid a visit with a retinue of officers, infantry, camels, horses and elephants and jewels, worth over a lakh. The child wore jewels worth a lakh of rupees and the Nawab ordered Police protection and escort to the boy till his seventeenth year. The boy began to show signs of divinity and rejected worldly pomp. After upayanam and Gayathri manthopadesam he began to repeat several manthas and recite slokas. This surprised one and all. From His eighth year he began to confound the parents and the Police by disappearing suddenly into the forest.

Ambalakunda is a sarovaram (lake) in the midst of a forest near Umnabad, 40 miles from Kalyani. On the bank of the sarovaram there was the tomb of a saint and the Kulakarni of Umnabad was surprised to see a ten year old boy alone in the midst of the thicket doing pradakshinam (going round the tomb) in great devotion to the tomb. When the Kulakarni tried to follow the boy deep into the jungle the boy turned into a tiger and the much frightened Kulakarni returned home. Back in the house, the Kulakarni was fervently praying for the safe delivery of his wife. The boy whom he saw in the forest appeared before him on a horse back and wished the woman safe delivery. The Kulakarni could recognise that he was the same baby whom he had seen with Bayadevi, his old acquaintance and the one in the forest and offered him a bale of laddu, half of which was returned.

Dadasaheb, the first brother aged sixteen was leading a life of a sanyasi and always engaged in penance. Manikya Prabhu disappeared from Kalyani and could not be traced by the Nawab's Police. The parents and the youngest son Thakya Saheb went to the forest in search of Prabhu leaving the first son to look after the chain of visitors at Kalyani for Prabhu's darshan. When the search proved futile, they commenced penance on the banks of Ambalakunda performing Daththathreya japam. Prabhu appeared before them with a tiger and immediately disappeared. Later, Lord Daththathreya revealed to them that their first son would become a sanyasi, the second a great soul who would save the world from evil and that their third son would look after their home.

Prabhu spent a year in a cave and set out on pilgrimage to Pandaripur on the banks of Chandrabhagha in Mysore State. On the way his disciple complained of hunger and Prabhu at once changed the surrounding forest into an ashram where the maids of the ashram served them food. The river near Pandaripur was in full floods and there were no boats for them to cross the river. Yet the party found themselves on the other bank where they were received and entertained with food by a Brahmin couple who were none other than Lord Panduranga and Rukhamabai (Rukmini Devi). During his wanderings, while he was at Kalyani, he displayed his super human powers and gave relief to several suffering devotees. He proved to his followers that a Muslim saint was no other than Lord Daththathreya testifying that the Trinity can assume the form of the founders of other religions in the world. On one occasion he fed over 10,000 with a morsel of food. One Rajamma consoled a boy by giving eight marbles he lost in a play. The boy blessed her with eight children and when she returned home she found the boy in the place of the idol in the puga room. The boy was no other than Manikya Prabhu. When some people were carrying the body of a woman to the cremation ground, Prabhu asked them whether they would burn a living woman. At once the woman got up. A Brahmin boy over-ate at a ceremony and later died. The ceremony could not be continued on account of the pollution. Prabhu brought the boy back to life and the ceremony was continued.

One day Prabhu who was amidst his devotees abruptly removed his upper garment and shut himself in a room. Four months afterwards a rich merchant came to Kalyani and revealed how at that very moment Manikya Prabhu saved him and his cargo worth lakhs of rupees from a storm in the mid-ocean. He gave three lakhs to Prabhu and fed 50,000 Brahmins. When Bolanath, a great devotee, persisted that he should be helped to go to heaven, Prabhu made him fly in the sky in the presence of his devotees. Muslims who challenged his title of Sarvamatha Sthapanacharya invited him for dinner and served meat preparations. Prabhu converted them into sweets, fruits and flowers and the liquor into milk. When Nizam-ul-Mulk invited him offering a Jagir with an annual income of Rs. 7,000. He rejected the offer stating that if the Nizam approaches Him, He would give him a much better kingdom. He displayed divine powers for forty-five years and fulfilled the desire of Venkamma who wanted to die earlier so that Prabhu can build the *samadh*i for her on Margasira Suddha Sapthami (November-December). Prabhu Himself gave up His mortal remains on Margasira Suddha Ekadasi at Manikyanagar in Umnabad.

Prabhu Jayanthi is being celebrated from Margasira Suddha Lkadasi to Purnima (November-December) on a grand scale at Manikyanagar. A large concourse of people from Telangana, Karnataka and Maharashtra and Northern India participate in the festival. At Sangareddy the celebration is on a very modest scale with abhishekam during 5 days and rathotsavam on Purnima. The following is the dhyanam and mangalachaanam in the Manikya Prabhu temple.

24. Patancheru—Situated at a distance of 5 miles from the Lingampalle Railway Station, 16 miles from Sangareddy and 20 miles from Hyderabad on Hyderabad—Bombay road

The village is believed to be an ancient one with some historical importance. It was the last entrance of the Kalyanpattanam. The recent excavations of several Jain images, Sivalingams, images of Nandi, Mahishasuramardini, Nagas, elephants and Mahavira lend support to the belief that this place must have been an important place in the hoary past. It is believed that the notorious King Talapectaraju ruled over this village. The story is that he used to kill a man every day and use his head as pectam (seat). So he came to be known as Talapectaraju. He is reputed to have practised the daily habit of—

ఆలికి కోసి కళ్ళనుచేసి వడ్లు దంచి భజించుచు
Aliki, kosi, kallamuchesi, vadlu danchi, bhujinchuvadu

(Clean the house or kitchen floor, cut the paddy, harvest it the same day, convert paddy into rice)

This exaggerated expression indicates the personal interest taken by the King in agriculture. This place was also the target of Muslim vandalism. Aurangzeb who invaded the village converted many temples into mosques. Even today relics of a Kalyanamantapam are found in the mosques situated in the heart of the village.

It is believed that in Gavi Basavanna mutt there is an underground tunnel to Kalyan, the centre of activity of Basaveswara, the great Veerasaiva reformer who attempted to bring all Hindu castes and communities under one banner abolishing the caste system in Hindu fold.

The tomb of Syed Shah Abdul Aziz Khadri Shah situated at the outskirts of the town is a centre of attraction and worship both for Hindus and Muslims. The tomb of Khadri is constructed on an elevated place. The other tomb on the pial is that of his elder brother Syed Shah Abdul Khader Kadri. It is said that these brothers came from Bagdad as dealers in horses although their main purpose was to propagate Islamic faith. The local Muslims encouraged them and the local Nawab developed a reverence for them as several predictions of the younger brother came true. But after some time the younger brother was killed while the elder died. They were buried and tombs erected. It was rumoured that fresh-flowers rained over the tombs.

Some devotees claim that about 30 years back both the brothers appeared on their tombs.

Sri Syed Shah Abdul Aziz Khadri Shah Urs is celebrated for 4 days from the 12th day of the Rajab (November–December) month. For the festival the pial and the tombs are whitewashed and decorated with flowers and sandal paste. On the first day Qavali is conducted by specialists invited from important Muslim centres like Hyderabad. There are also lectures on religion. The function continues on the second day and third day. The entire area is profusely illuminated. On the fourth day the devotees take gandham to a darga where prayers are offered. The gandham is brought back to the darga. There is poor feeding on this occasion. This is a 150 year old festival confined to this place only. Mujavars are Muslims with hereditary rights who claim heritage from the Prophet. A peeru said to have been brought from Bagdad is exhibited on the second day during the Urs every year. It is made of stone and gives metallic sound. A couple of thousand Hindus and Muslims congregate.

Sri Basava Jayanthi is celebrated at Basaveswara temple for 2 days in Vaisakhani (April–May) commencing from Rohini nakshathram. Daily lectures, poor feeding and car festival are the functions held during the festival. This is an ancient festival confined to the Lingayats and their followers. 15. Kohir—A Railway Station on the Vikarabad—Purli—Vaidyanath line of the Central Railway, situated at a distance of 8 miles from Zahirabad, 28 miles from Mohammadabad and 75 miles from Hyderabad. Originally this was known as Omkaram.

'Onkareswara Mahathyam' an unpublished manuscript on palm leaves in Sanskrit, states that the place was called Onkaram. It was once called Dakshina Badarikasramam. Thousands of years ago Badrudu, a rishi did penance standing in the middle of panchagni (five fires) to please Lord Siva. Pleased with the penance of the rishi Lord Siva appeared before his disciple along with his consort Parvati. The rishi was in deep meditation and did not see the divine couple. Parvati took this as an insult and ridiculed him as saying that he can be easily pleased by mere mentioning of his name and that his devotees never care for him. The enraged Siva opened his third eye. The flames that emanated from his third eye burnt the rishi. Then the Lord cursed Parvati to become a stone and fall on earth for rousing his indignation. But soon realising his impulsive act Lord Siva remained on earth doing penance as he could not live without Parvati. As the divine couple did not return to Kailasam, Pramatha ganas sought the aid of Brahma and Vishnu to bring back Parvati and Parameswara to Kailasam. The entreaties of both Vishnu and Brahma proved futile. Lord Siva refused to return to Kailasam without his consort. As Brahma and Vishnu also did not return, the Trinity remained together as Omkareswara. A temple with golden sikharams was constructed by the Pramadhas and Amaras with 116 kinds of stone. It was therefore called 'Ahamkara pattanam'. During the times of Muslim rulers it was called Kohir. Koh in Parsi means hill and heer means gem. It was also called Akovur and Akovuru. From the decipherable portions of inscriptions of the recently excavated Veera Sangaiyah Katta (a pial in the name of a local hero Veera Sangaiyah) it is seen that this sasanam (inscription) was written by Pamperamanadi, the samantha of Someswara II of Kalyani and archakaivam (Priesthood) was given to Siddhanta Devara, a guru and some lands were given as Inam. According to the sasanam relating to 991 Saka year corresponding to 1068 A.D. Kohir was a prosperous city about thousand years back. It appears to have come under the rule of Kakathiya in 13th century. Dilapidated buildings with massive red stone walls are still standing as grim reminders of its past amidst residential buildings. There are several such dilapidated buildings in the fields. Till Fash 1305 it was the headquarters of a taluk. The story is that when Pratapa Rudradeva halted here during his digvijaya yatra a sage appeared before him in a dream and told him that he would never be defeated if he worshipped the image of Parvati which was under the ground of Omkareswara temple. He also told Pratapa Rudra Deva that he would be reborn as the second Pratapa Rudra in future and lose the fruits of his worship by the curse of a rishi whom he would insult in anger and thus the Kakathiya dynasty would become extinct. Pratapa Rudra made efforts to find out the image of Parvati as instructed in his dream. He enshrined the deity in a temple. The deity is also known as Ekkaladevi Eka-veera and Ekkalamma. Even now there is a tank called Ekkaladevikunta and the deity is popular for Her mahatmyam (power). Pratapa Rudra who was ruling this region from Warangal gifted some land to a Muslim religious head who gradually gained control over the entire city. When Prataparudra came to know about it he sent through a Saiva Brahmin an order commanding him to vacate the usurped area. The order was set at naught and the Brahmin was insulted. The enraged Brahmin cursed that the city would be ruined. The king took no action because of his preoccupation. Subsequently the Sultans of Bahmani, Bidar and the Nizam of Hyderabad became the rulers. Yet the town did not flourish. During the Bahmani period Mohammed Gavan made a name as a great scholar and founder of a University at Bidar. He plotted against the king for which he was hanged. Till the formation of Andhra Pradesh it was in the district of Bidar. It has now been transferred to Medak district.

The total population of the village is 8,584 and it is made up of the following communities: Caste Hindus—Brahmin, Vaisya, Kapu, Yadava, Lingayat, Chakali, etc., Scheduled Castes (979), and Muslims. The chief means of livelihood of the people are agriculture, trade and other traditional occupations.

The temples of Pandu Ranga, Vittal, Hanuman, Venkateswara and Kalamma, Prabhu mandir and Rama mandir are the places of worship. The idol of Pandu Ranga closely resembles the temple at Pandaripur. Hazarath Mohyuddin Saheb tomb in a darga is an important place of Muslim worship. Many Hindus also visit the darga. The temple of Omkareswara was once a big and famous temple but now it is razed to the ground and all its black stones brought all the way from Warangal were used in the construction of mosques and houses.

Veera Sangaiyah Katta, a pial is a place of veneration and hero-worship. Veera Sangaiyah, an ordinary resident of the place loved Chandramathi, a Vesya (dancing girl) and she too reciprocated the love on condition that he would marry her in spite of social customs. The king of Bidar who was lured by her beauty wanted to take Chandramathi into his harem. He came to Kohir with a small army expecting little opposition. But Veera Sangaiyah who knew about the intentions of the king, mobilised his supporters and defeated the army. The king pretended to appreciate the valour of Veera Sangaiyah but by treachery got him assassinated. Veera Sangaiyah is worshipped for his courage and valour.

Sri Mohyuddin Saheb Urs is an important annual function. He is believed to have come from Rome with Hussain and Sekhan Saheb for carrying out Islamic propaganda. In a melee Sekhan Saheb was beheaded in Sikhapur, a place 6 miles from here and his head was buried there. His body came here

The total population of the village is 2,038 and it is made up of the following communities: Caste Hindus—Brahmin, Vaisya, Viswabrahmin, Mangah, Chakali, Vadrangi, etc., and Scheduled Castes (335). The chief means of livelihood of the people are agriculture, trade and other traditional occupations.

The temples of Sarabhanka Lingamaiah with the image of the deity in human form and Sivarambhava mutt with the image of the saint in human form are the places of worship in this village. The prasada samadhi of Veerabrahmendraswamy and the brass idols of Veerabrahmam and his granddaughter Eswaramma are worshipped with great reverence. The body of the great saint Veerabrahmam was buried at Kandimallayapalem in Cuddapah District. Perhaps the sacred prasadam is kept buried here and hence the samadhi is called prasada samadhi.

Sri Veerabrahmam, a great saint was held in high esteem and worshipped with very great devotion by millions of Hindus and Kannadigas. He is worshipped even outside the two States of Andhra Pradesh and Mysore. Veerabrahmam was born in Papagni Mutt at Nandikonda in Mysore State to a Viswabrahmin couple, Yanamadala Veerabhojachari and Veerapapamamba. He came to Banganapalle and spent sometime as a servant in a Kapu family grazing the cattle. He spent the later part of his life writing kalagananam. This kalagananam predicted future happenings in society, country and abroad. Several of his predictions have come true already. The most conspicuous of them is his prediction that the State would be ruled from tents at Kurnool. Several miracles are attributed to this great saint. On one mid-night he sent one of his disciples to fetch rice and curds from the house in which a light was burning. There was only one house in the whole of the village in which a light was burning but a great tragedy had befallen the owner. Their only son lay dead in the house. The disciple in strict obedience to his master's directions requested for rice and curds. As she knew about Veerabrahmam's fame the housewife gave rice and curds which were kept in the house untouched on account of the death of the boy. Veerabrahmam ate the food saying —

“పెరుగు అన్నం పెట్టిన తల్లి కడుపు చల్లగ ఉండని

meaning — let her progeny prosper.

When the heart-stricken mother bemoaned the death of her only son, Veerabrahmam called out the name of the boy who at once got back his life.

Eswaramma, the worthy grand-daughter of Veerabrahmam, remained a virgin preaching the oneness of God. Her samadhi (tomb) is located in the compound adjacent to the grand-father's temple at Kandimallayapalem.

Sri Veerabrahmam Aradhana is celebrated for 6 days from Vaisakha Suddha Panchami to Dasami (April-May). On the first day the Lord is invoked and his padukas (sandals) are taken out in a procession. The hoisting and worship of the flag with Onkaram (letter 'Om' in Sanskrit) takes place on the second day. Eswaramma Aradhana is celebrated on the third day and Sarabhanka Lingamarah Aradhana on the fourth day. On the fifth day, decorated carts drawn by decorated bullocks and loaded with eatables are taken round the samadhi of Veerabrahmam. Navedyam is offered to the Lord and distributed. The car festival and mahanaivedyam take place on the last day. Homam is performed throughout the festival period. Cocoanuts and pancha bakshya paramannams are offered to the deity. The devotees take oil bath and offer navedyam to the Lord. This festival is of ancient origin and is confined to Regod and its neighbouring villages. The chief patrons are the village heads. About 2,000 devotees of all communities congregate. Sivachari of Abhuvarnasa gotram is the pujari with hereditary rights.

A fair is held in connection with the festival near the samadhi. About 2,000 devotees attend the fair. Eatables, utensils, lanterns, torchlights, mirrors, combs, Ayurvedic medicines, books, photos, handloom clothes, agricultural implements and fancy goods are sold at the fair. Temporary pandals are put up for the visitors. Dramas, puranas, Harikathas and folk dances entertain the visitors.

Sivarambhava Aradhana is performed from Vaisakha Bahula Dasami (April-May) when houses are decorated and jaqaram observed. This is being celebrated for the past 350 years in memory of the great saint Sivarambhava. The local devotees, irrespective of caste or creed, congregate. Pujari is a Brahmin of Koundinyasa gotram with hereditary rights.

17 Jogipet—The headquarters of Andole Taluk—Situated at a distance of 20 miles from Sangareddy, 24 miles from Medak, 34 miles from the Sankarpalle Railway Station on the Wadi—Secunderabad line of the Central Railways and 54 miles from Hyderabad. Jogipet was once an important Jain centre and later on became a Saiva centre.

There are several versions current regarding the origin of its name.

Allamareddy Chowdari, the valiant descendant of Raminayudu, the founder of Medak Samsthanam was the ruler of this place in 1547 A.D. As he was childless, he worshipped several gods, fed sadhus and sanyasis and sought their blessings. One day a yogi by name Ramayogi came and advised Allamareddy to install a Sivalingam on the Vaikrantha hill and perform puhrakameshti yagam. Accordingly Allamareddy performed the yagam and Pavaka, the fire god pleased with the offerings, blessed him with a number of children. As a mark of gratitude he named the village as Ramajogipet, which later became "Jogipet."

Another version current is that in the year 1780 one Sadasivareddy of Papannapet went to see Bhagyanagar along with his retinue. When he came to Vaikrantha hill the bullock carts would not move. Efforts to make them move proved futile. Even sacrifice of animals had no effect. Sadasiva Reddy solemnly prayed God. Lord Siva in the guise of a yogi appeared before him in a dream and said that the bullocks would proceed further only if he constructed a gudi (temple) and a gadi (fort) at the place. Sadasivareddy accordingly constructed a six pillared mantapam with white marble stone over the Sivalingam in a dark cave. As the Lord gave his darshan as a yogi, the place came to be known as Jogipet.

There is yet another version according to which Daksha, the father of the divine consort, Parvati, performed a great yaga by inviting all the Gods except Lord Siva. When Parvati came to know that her father was performing a yaga, she implored her Lord to permit her to witness the yaga but Siva did not permit her. Despite this, Parvati attended the yaga. Daksha did not welcome his daughter and in the presence of all the invitees he insulted her and Lord Siva. Parvati who could not bear this disgrace burnt herself to death in the sacrificial fire. It is believed that the bereaved Lord spent several years at the place doing penance as a yogi and later married Parvati when she was reborn. As the Lord spent his life as a yogi this place came to be known as Jogipet.

Another story is that when Andole was a flourishing city, the weekly market used to be held in this locality. It was then known as Angadipeta. Ramachandrapuram and Lakshmiapuram were the neighbouring villages. As it was the frequent target of thieves and house-breakers, several merchants began to desert the place. One Noolu Basappa, a merchant of Umnabad who had settled at Angadipeta with the assistance of Jogappa of Andole, formed Angadipeta, Lakshmiapuram and Ramachandrapuram into one group and constructed a fort, as a protection. They installed the Joginatha Sivalingam and named the newly formed village as Jogipeta. The Samsihanadhipathi of Andole honoured Noolu Basappa with the title of 'Setty' and appointed him as the head of the village.

This place appears to have been a Jain strong hold during the 11th and 12th centuries. In the caves where Jain jogis did penance the Kannadiga Veerasaivas installed the Sivalingam. Even now there is a Jain mutt consisting of the life-like marble idols of great Jain leaders, Vardhamanamahaveera, Chandraprabhu, Parswanatha and the rest of the twenty four of them. Seven or eight decades ago the Jains predominated the area. The great research scholar, late Suravaram Pratapa Reddy in his 'Andhrula Sanghika Charitra' has observed that this was only a place of shelter for Jain jogis. Hence it came to be known as Jogipet.

The total population of the town is 10,681 and it is made up of the following communities: Caste Hindus — Brahmin, Vaisya, Kapu, Golla, Budabukala, Ediga, Sale, Chakali, Mangali, Muthracha etc, Scheduled Castes (1,354) — Mala, Madiga, Muslims and Jains. The chief means of livelihood of the people are agriculture, agricultural labour, trade and other traditional occupations.

Besides the Joginatha temple situated on the hill, there are the temples of Rajarajeswara, Manikyaprabhu, Siva, Vitaleswara, Lakshminarayana, Hanuman, Gopalaswamy, Sangameswara, village deities Yellamma, Vadunalamma, Pochamma and two mutts of Jains. Manjeera otherwise known as Garuda Ganga flows touching the foot of the hill on which the temple of Gopinatha stands. It is said that Janamejaya, the son of Pareekshith, performed Saipayagam (serpent sacrifice) to wreak vengeance against the serpent world, as a serpent bit his father to death. Kadruva, the mother of the serpents lamented over the death of her sons and begged Vainatheya to bring the sacred water of Ganga for the salvation of her offspring. Vainatheya pleaded that the ashes of the serpents are very huge and that it was not possible to bring enough water from the celestial river. Then Kadruva handed over her manjeera (anklet) and requested him to get as much water as it could hold. While Vainatheya was bringing the manjeera with the celestial water it slipped and fell on earth near Jogipet and began to flow forming seven branches. Hence it is called Manjeera. It is also called Garuda Ganga as Garuda, known as Vainatheya, was responsible for the birth of the river.

The peculiarity in the Joginatha temple is that both Siva and Parvati stand side by side in the form of Lingams without panivattam indicating, perhaps, that Siva is Ardhanareeswara (half Himself and half Parvati). The temple and the Lord face West. It is said that the cave in which Ramajogi did penance is still in existence. There is a small koneru on the hill, which used to have water during all seasons. But, owing to some contamination it dries up now and then. Visitors sprinkle the sacred teertham of this koneru over their heads before they go for the darshan of the Lord.

Joginathaswamy Uthsavam is celebrated for 11 days from Chaura Suddha Panchami to Purnima (March-April). Raihothsavam is celebrated on Dasami. Lankadahanam on Purnima is an attractive function. Devotees offer coconuts and fruits. No devotee chooses to keep quiet without liquidating his vows fearing some mishap. An interesting story is that one issueless couple worshipped the Lord promising that they would deliver the child to the Lord if they begot one by His grace. Very soon they were blessed with a daughter whom they named as Jogamma but later on forgot about their vow. When she grew up her parents fixed up her marriage. Mysteriously just before the marriage day a strong whirlwind swept the marriage pandal and the girl, carried her to the temple of Joginatha on the hill. Jogamma lived by begging and if on any day she had more than two days' ration, rats used to eat the excess by the power of the Lord. She spent the rest of her life in this manner in the temple. Later the devotees came to know about the fate of Jogamma and began to worship the Lord with sincerity. The devotees name their children after the Lord as Jogaiah, Jogamma, Jogireddy, Jogirao, Joginath etc. This is an ancient festival confined to Jogipeta and a few of its neighbouring villages. The Vaisyas conduct the festival and about 5 to 6 thousand Hindu devotees participate in the festival. Pujari is a Jangam with hereditary rights.

A fair is held in a large area belonging to the Local Board and Pattadars. Taxes are collected from merchants to meet the expenses of the festival. Glassware, utensils, lanterns, mirrors, combs, pictures, photos, clothes, agricultural implements and toys of various kinds are sold at the fair. There is free feeding during the festival period. Circus, merry-go-rounds afford entertainment to the visitors.

Manikyaprabhu Aradhana is celebrated for 8 days from Margasira Suddha Dasami to Bahula Vidiya (November-December) along with Bhagavatha saphaham (non-stop reciting of Bhagavatham for 7 days). Details of Manikyaprabhu's life are given in the write-up of Sangareddy. This is a ten year old festival observed in the neighbouring taluks of this district and the Mysore State because of the popularity of the great saint. About 5 to 6 thousand Hindus congregate. Brahmins are pujaris and there is free feeding also.

ANDOLE is included in the Jogipet Municipal limits. The original name of the village was Landala, which later became Andole when it was made the capital of Medak Samsthanam. A stone inscription in the village Chekumala states that Andole was ruled by Kakatiyas. Though Raminaidu was the first to rule the Samsthanam about 1,232 A.D., Allamareddy Chowdharu improved the village by constructing temples and huge tanks. He established Jogipeta and installed Joginatha Lingam after he was blessed with a child by the grace of Ramajogi. His dynasty ruled from 1,450 to 1,535. Narasimhareddy of this dynasty who was the contemporary of Aurangzeb in the 17th century was known as a great ruler and a philanthropist. His name is found in several Government Sanads. He used to measure the area with his fingers and when he heard that this resulted in reduction of the area of lands gifted and enhancement of revenue he at once cut the portion between the thumb and the forefinger increasing the area in between.

The following poem has compared Narasimhareddy to the legendary King Sibi, who offered his flesh to a falcon in order to save a dove.

“దేవకయ తపవోనరిస

Degakayi thanuvosangina

త్యాగి కదా శివి యచంత త్యాగము ప్రజ్ఞతే

Thyagi kada Sibi yadantha thyagamu prajakai

బాగొప్ప హస్త మిచ్చిన

Bagoppa hastha michchina

త్యాగిని నరసింహు నరసింహ తన వలదా

Thyagini Narasimhu nathani tha thanavalada''

Rani Sankaramba reputed as raya-baag (tiger-queen) and Raja Sadasivareddy, her worthy adopted son are the other illustrious descendants of this dynasty. Their lives composed in ballads are sung by thandanana singers for three nights. When her husband died of poisoning Sankaramba succeeded him and won reputation as a good ruler and thus kept up her family tradition. During the war between the Peeshwas of Marata and Nizamalikhan, her sovereign, she personally led her army and defeated the Peshwa. The Nizam rewarded her with several agraharams for her valour. Later she became an ascetic and visited several sacred places in the country. She adopted Raja Sadasivareddy as her son and successor. Raja Sadasivareddy after he became a ruler, sided Aleeza, against his father Nizamalikhan. Aleeza was poisoned to death and Sadasivareddy earned the wrath of the Nizam who finding him too strong got him killed by some of his men and consoled the bereaved queens by allotting each a few villages. The last ruler of the dynasty was Rani Venkatalakshmayamma who died in 1959. Her daughter Rani Sankaramba and her adopted son Raja Ramachandrarreddy are still living.

The temples of Ranganathaswamy with His image in a reposeing posture on sesathalpa (serpent-bed), Rama, Anjaneyulu and village deities Pochamma, Durgamma, Yellamma and a darga for Muslims are the places of worship in this part of the town

Sri Ranganathaswamy Kalyanam and rathothsavam are being celebrated every year for the past 250 years

Darga Uthsavam is another annual festival the details of which are lacking

Whenever epidemics such as cholera, small-pox, chicken-pox, etc., break out in the town animals are sacrificed to the deities. A Harijan of the Erpula family gets possessed and announces the name of the village deity. Generally sheep, goats, fowls and buffaloes are sacrificed to the devata. When cholera is prevalent the person possessed bites the throat of a goat. This practice is an ancient one in Andole. The leaders of the town and headmen are the patrons and devotees of all communities congregate. Pujaris are Sudras.

After the downfall of the Maharastra Empire the descendants of Peshwa Bajji Rao migrated to this place surrounded by hills and constructed a village by name Bongarala. Later the Chintalagattu family of certain Reddi Kings constructed another village by name Budigipalle adjacent to Bongarala. Even now there is a well known as Budigivandla Bhatti. During the times of Salarjung Bahadur I there was a readjustment of territories, when Bongarala village was gifted to Maharaja Chandulal Bahadur as Jagir and Budigipalle was divided into two parts and given to Pappannapet Jagirdars and Iqbal-ud-Doula. There is an interesting story current regarding the origin of the name of the village. The tank situated in between Bongarala and Budigi, was getting breached occasionally and causing damage to the village despite frequent repairs. One day the Lord appeared before one Sirimakka, a Vaisya lady in a dream and ordained her to sacrifice her life in order to stop the breach. Sirimakka, therefore implored the villagers to buy her alive at the place where the tank had breached. The villagers reluctantly carried out her orders, since then the tank had not developed any breaches. As a gratitude, the two villages Budigipalle and Bongarala were clubbed into one village and named as Siripuram

8 Medak—Situated at a distance of 13 miles from the Akkannapet Railway Station and 50 miles from Hyderabad

This town situated on the northern, and eastern sides of a high hill was at one time strongly fortified. After Satavahanas rule in the early period of the Christian era this region was in a political turmoil till it was conquered by the Chalukyas of Badami early in the 7th century A D. Later it played an important part during the wars between the Rashtrakutas and the Eastern Chalukyas of Vengi and was finally conquered by the Chalukyas of Kalyan towards the later part of the 10th century A D. Two centuries later it became one of the strongholds of the Kakatiyas.

"In 1309 Al'au-din's general Malik Kafir, marched with a large army against the Raja of Warangal and took Medak on his route. In the fourteenth Century Medak formed part of the Bahmani Kingdom, and subsequently passed on to the Kutub-Shahi dynasty of Golconda. On the fall of Golconda, it was annexed to the Mughal Empire from which it was detached in the early part of the 18th Century on the foundation of the Hyderabad State."¹

Prior to the seizure of this fort by Kutub-Shahi Sultans, it was under the rule of one Barid. Sri Ad-danki Gangadhara Kavai in his renowned book Tapati Samvaranopakhyanam mentions about the conquest of this fort by Kutub-Mulk—place was known as Sadapur-Vedak and during the period of the Golconda Emperors it was called Gulshanabad. The Nizams renamed it as Methukudurgam because of the abundant growth of fine and coarse rice in the district. In short it was called Methuku (a particle of cooked rice) which subsequently corrupted into Medak.

Medak fort stands 300 feet above the surrounding plains and is one of the important hill forts in the Deccan. The tradition of constructing forts goes back to the times of the Mouryas long before Christ and Kautilya's Arthashastra mentions different kinds of forts and gives details of fort construction.

The fort of Medak was considerably improved in later times but its nucleus was built by the Kakatiya rulers of 12th and 13th centuries A D. Even earlier there must have been a fortification of some kind or the other on this hill since this area has been quite important from the times of the Satavahanas, who according to Megasthenes had 30 walled cities in their kingdom. The excavations at Kondapur, not far from Medak in the same district, has brought to light many thousands of antiquities which take us back to the 1st century A D. Originally this hill fort was surrounded by lines of fortifications with imposing gateways all of which have now disappeared. Now the approach has lost its imposing gateway and an easy gradient leads up the path to a considerable height on the hill, before we meet a massive gateway. The emblem of Gandhabherunda, a mythical double-headed eagle, carrying elephants in its beak and claws was found in several places in this fort especially on a gateway at the back of the Mubarak Mahal suggesting contact with the Hoyasalas of Mysore who started as the feudatories of the Chalukyas of Kalyani when the latter ruled in this region. There are a number of Hindu and Muslim structures on the top of this fort including Mubarak Mahal and a mosque built in later medieval times. There are a number of caves on the hill and the names by which they are known even today indicate that one was a magazine, another an arsenal, the third a granary and so on.

"The fort contains a brass gun 10 feet long cast at Rotterdam for the Dutch in 1620. A Persian inscription on a slab in the taluk office alludes to the building of a mosque in 1641, on the ruins of demolished temple."³

In 1761 A D the whole of Telangana including Medak became a part of the Nizam's territory and continued as such though some changes were made in 1905. Before the reign of Bahamani Kings the

The total population of the town is 16,320 and it is made up of the following communities: Caste Hindus—Brahmin, Vaisya, Kapu, Kamma, Kamsali, Chakali, Mangali, Sale, Kuruva, Golla, Muth-racha, Scheduled Castes (2,088)—Mala, Madiga, Christians and Muslims. The chief means of livelihood of the people are agriculture, agricultural labour, trade and other traditional occupations.

The temples of Siva, Kesava, Venkateswara-swamy, Rama, Nalla Pochamma, Boranchamma, Muthyalamma and Gattamma located in the town, the temple of Anjaneyaswamy situated at the foot hill, Siddeswara Mandir, Balaji Mandir, few mosques and the big South Indian church are the places of worship. Number of monkeys have made Anjaneyaswamy temple as their abode and none of them enter the town.

The cathedral deserves special mention and description. The first sods for the construction of this church were cut in January 1914 and the building operations continued for over ten years. The architects, mason, Bradshaw, Gass and Hope of Bolton, England rendered yeoman service. The following tablet in the east vestry has been placed in grateful recognition of their invaluable services.

"This tablet is to commemorate the gift of most generous service rendered by the Architects Messrs—Bradshaw, Gass and Hope of Bolton, England—who executed more than 200 plans and gave unstinted help over a period of ten years."

The cathedral is 200 feet high and accommodates 5,000 at one time. The tower over the entrance is 175 feet high. In those days of cheap labour and material the construction of the cathedral costed 25 lakhs of rupees. Following is another tablet inside the cathedral.

"In grateful tribute to the work of Frank O Salisbury—R. A., C.V.O., embodied in the three windows of

I The Association 1927	Rs 50,000
II The Nativity 1947	Rs 35,000
III The Crucifixion 1958	Rs 40,000

This last is in Honoured Memory of the late Rev Charles Walker Posnett
Mr Alice Mande Salisbury
Mrs Thomas Edward Hardinge
And other 'Companions' of the Cross"

Frank Salisbury was the architect and Rev Charles Walker Posnett was the founder life and soul of the Cathedral and the mission at the Medak Centre.

Rev. Posnett born on 7th December 1870 in Sheffield sailed for India in 1895 and was appointed as Missionary at Medak. He did yeoman service to the sick, poor and the down-trodden, retired in 1939 and returned to England. He passed away on 30th September, 1950 leaving behind in Medak a name revered by thousands of Christians and non-Christians.

An unknown person has paid glowing tributes to the architecture of the church in the following terms.

"In my days, I have seen many number of stained glass windows in churches in my own town, in my own country, in England and in Australia, but no where have I seen art at its best, as it is reproduced in the three windows in the Medak Cathedral. They stand there unrivalled, unparalled in beauty, majesty, dignity and solemnity! The artist has seen to the minutiae with such precision that the three windows, to say the least, are simply exquisite, richly gorgeous and sublimely glorious, begging, all description! There is nothing crude or bizarre about any of them. One has often noticed simple village folk, Non-Christians and others entering the sanctuary talking with one another and making a noise, but when once they came in sight of the windows a sudden hush fell on them with overwhelming awe, and they stood spellbound enraptured in mystic silence! In low tones one whispers to the other trying to explain to each other the meaning of the magnificent coloured-pictures in glass, to which their eyes are glued."

The total cost of the windows runs into six figured amount. The story connected with the pictures depicted on the windows is given below.

THE MEDAK CATHEDRAL THE STAINED GLASSWINDOW ENTITLED THE ASCENSION

In point of time this is the first to be installed in 1927, occupying the vast expense in the chancel and which is visible in all its fullness to the whole congregation in the nave of the cathedral. It was in the providence of God that this should be the first, because the church was built not merely to tell the story of the Cross of Jesus, which is unique to Christianity and is essential for the salvation of mankind, but it also stands to declare the Living Presence of the Risen Lord, who ascended into heaven and having been enthroned on high, makes the grand declaration: "Full authority in Heaven and on Earth has been committed to me. Go forth therefore and make all nations my disciples, proclaim the good news to the whole creation, and baptize men everywhere in the name of the Father and the Son and the Holy Spirit. Lo I am with you always to the close of the age"¹ If this Cathedral Church has to have a name, the one that suggests itself to me is 'the Church of Ascension of the Lord'

This is the largest of the three stained glass windows and Sir Frank Salisbury has so lavishly expended his artistic, aesthetic, esoteric faculties in producing the window that, to say the least, he has excelled himself in this finished product of a perfect piece of art

As in Handel's 'Messiah', in Mendelson's 'Elijah' and in Steiner's 'Crucifixion', the cumulative effect of the musical symposium of high value is the sum total of all that is best, similarly all that is best in art has been cast into this window, that in its beauty and glory it stands unrivalled and unexcelled¹ The dexterity with which the artist has brought out the richness of varied colours without making them unduly loud or too palid makes one wonder whether the Divine Hand has not been directing the artist's mind, in guiding his hand to bring to life a picture of such rare and exquisite beauty, which the eye never feels too tired to gaze upon?

Standing in front of it, one is lifted up into dizzy heights of the loftiest mountain peaks, the thrill of which can better be experienced than expressed, and falling frustrated before that immense expanse of perfect beauty one can only say

"Glory to our Ascended Lord that He is with us always

Glory to Him who has led captivity captive and given gifts for the perfecting of His saints

Glory to the Author and Finisher of Faith,

To whom be all worship and praise,

dominion and glory, now and for ever and ever

Amen"²

The central figure is 'The Ascending Lord', with his flowing robes of variegated colours, with His eyes looking downwards upon His disciples and those other faithful followers, who with their upward gaze and outstretching arms, are invoking for a blessing upon them. The Lord, with both His hands raised towards heaven, and His feet lifted up from the ground, gives the impression that He is in the act of being mysteriously evanescing from the world and from human sight. Even the eyes of an amateur cannot fail to appreciate the perfection in art achieved by the artist in bringing life into an inanimate figure, that it gives the impression of a living person actually moving higher and higher into etherial regions

It is the beauty of the Lord's countenance that captivates the attention of the onlooker¹ The serenity and the overflowing love in the face, the sympathy and understanding in the look, the care and the longing of the soul, the charm and dignity of His whole demeanour are all so perfectly depicted, that one could gaze and gaze upon that charming face, longing to gaze on more, yet not satisfied¹

Here a big broad arc of light separates the terrestrial from the celestial regions. There are two ranges of angels one below the other. The bigger angels with wings are blowing their trumpets and playing their flutes, viols, and other musical instruments, as though they are giving their hearty welcome to the Lord of the Universe on His return from His visit to the Planet Earth. Round the heads of the angels on the left is a scroll with the inscription 'Glory to God in the Highest'³ while on a similar scroll on the right there are the words 'On Earth Peace and Goodwill'³ as though the singing was antiphonal¹ Above this strip of angels there is another set of smaller angels nude hovering about the Lord, as though they are also joining in the welcome that is given to Him by their senior compatriots. There are also tiny figures of innocents round about the head of the Lord

There is one gradually widening lustrous shaft, like a beam coming right from the top to the earth, reaching the middle group of disciples at the bottom. Two shining horizontal arcs, one small and the other large cut across the vertical beam of light giving the impression of forming a brightly illumined cross as the background for the Ascending Lord.

The Lord Himself is within an oval frame of blue as He is ascending into the skies, giving the impression that His is the main figure separated from the rest of the window

THE MEDAK CATHEDRAL
THE STAINED GLASS WINDOW ENTITLED
DIVINE MANIFESTATION

In point of time this was the Second window installed, in the year 1947. It is dedicated to the women, past and present, who have rendered and are now rendering faithful service to their Lord Jesus Christ in what was once the Hyderabad District of the British Methodist Church now called the Church of South India.

The Rev C W Posnett, who was always eager to do something magnanimous and appropriate, very rightly thought of a window to be dedicated to Women Workers, as an expression of gratitude, for all that he himself had received through the selfless and indefatigable services of his own beloved sister Miss Emile Posnett, their loyal and devoted mutual friend Miss Sally A Harris and his own kinswoman Miss Gertrude Wigfield, the last mentioned was much the junior and joined them later in their service. His large heart had also a place for Indian women, who once rendered faithful service, like Abhishekamma, the Indian worker, who was a colleague, a companion, an assistant, a mother, a chaperon, a liaison between the Indian and the European, in fine, everything to those two young and attractive ladies, Miss Posnett and Miss Harris! He also had in mind the wives of Indian Ministers and Evangelists who were rendering honorary service in the Urban and Rural Pastorate, shouldering equal, if not greater responsibility than their husbands, in that they had not only to help their husbands in their work going out with them on tours, but also in keeping home for their husbands and children. His range of conception of woman worker was not confined only to those in pastoral and evangelistic work, but extended to all those devoted women in the Educational, Medical and other departments in the District.

The window is therefore aptly 'Dedicated to the honour and glory of Womanhood'!

The Persona Grata in this window is the Virgin Mary, Mother of Jesus. It is significant that in art, from early days of Christianity, the Madonna, is draped in royal blue and is most modestly dressed. Sir Frank Salisbury has remained faithful to his professional forbears in this respect! In the window she is seen bending, in her characteristic humility and modesty and with deep devotion, over the cradle, in which is laid her first born, the Saviour of the world! It is the Mother who attracts our attention more than the Infant Jesus. Behind her is Joseph who, with wonder and awe gazes into the face of the Holy Child.

On the left, as we look at the window, we have the shepherds who, having heard the news from the Angel Gabriel, have come with a few sheep to offer their obsequies to the Child, their Saviour. There we see two shepherds one standing, and the other kneeling both with the shepherd's crook in their hands looking in the direction of the Divine Son.

On the right are the traditional Three Wise Men, as Dorothy Sayer depicts them in her book entitled 'The Man Born To Be King', who, having seen the Star in the East, have come a long distance bedecked with costly jewels, in their Princely robes, decorative head-gears and with their offerings of gold, frankincense, and myrrah to worship the Child, the King of the whole Universe. The Star is conspicuously imbedded in the centre of an illumined Cruciform and cannot be easily missed.

Right on the top of the window there is the Dove and immediately under it is the grand figure of 'the Ancient of Days', with his hoary hair and flowing beard pointing his hand to the Incarnate-God. Round his head is a halo of rainbow colours and the inscription reads 'For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son'!

Below Him are the words, 'And the Government shall be upon His shoulders and His name shall be called, Wonderful Counsellor, Almighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace'.² These words singly are held by a row of nude Cherubs holding each name between each of them.

The whole space is peopled with nude figures of Cherubs and faces of Cherubs with tiny wings encircling their faces. Separating 'the Ancient of Days' from the nether regions is a bigger rainbow, at the bottom of which we read, 'And we beheld His glory'.³ We see Madonna, on the left side of

³ Jn 1, 14

of the cradle in her blue attire reverently and with deep devotion looking upon the face of her child On the right is a winged angel clad in red, kneeling by the cradle looking at the Babe At the bottom there is a cluster of Easter lilies with green leaves

In all the three windows the motif common is the richly and gloriously coloured rainbow separating the nether regions from the regions above

Another object common to all the three windows is the Dove, the symbol of the Holy Spirit, the Third Person in the Trinity, co-existing eternally with the Father and the Son

The Parson says "The enigmatic figure in the window is the representation of 'the Ancient of Days', making the whole picture anthropomorphic" Whether the venerable figure is supposed to be the Divine Father, becoming incarnate in Jesus, one cannot say¹ For my part, I do not want to think of it as a representation of God, the Father, the very idea is repulsive to me, who cannot bring myself to believe that in a Christian art the Divine Father is given a human form

I have taken the liberty to explain to those whom I had the privilege of showing round the Cathedral, that this imposing human figure is the Prophet Isaiah, with his inner vision opened, through whom the Holy Spirit had predicted saying

"For to us a child is born,
To us a son is given
And his name will be called
Wonderful counsellor, Mighty God,
Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace"¹

Whether or not the artist agrees with my interpretation, this satisfies me and has satisfied my hearers, and I am content with it! Whereas the idea of 'the Ancient of Days', being the human representation of the Eternal, bristles with questions and doubts which cannot be easily and adequately answered, and also raises the hair in a Muslim, who can hardly brook the idea of God being depicted as a man It is also contrary to the teaching of the Bible, wherein the Lord Himself commands the people saying, 'You shall not make yourself any likeness of anything'^{1 2}

The window is a poem in art which we sing
Sunday after Sunday as the Magnificent x x x x x x x x x

"This is that blessed Mary, pre-elect
God's virgin Come is a great while, and she Dwelt young in Nazareth of Galilee
Unto God's will she brought devout respect,
Profound simplicity of intellect
And supreme patience From her mother's knee
Faithful and hopeful, wise in charity,
Strong in grave peace, in pity circumspect
So held she through her girl-hood, as it were
An angel-watered lily, that near God
Grows and is quiet Till, one dawn at home
She woke in her white bed, and had no fear
At all, — yet wept till sunshine, and felt awed
Because the fullness of the time was come"³

—Dante Gabriel Rossetti

THE MEDAK CATHEDRAL THE STAINED GLASS WINDOW ENTITLED THE CRUCIFIXION

Chronologically this is the last window to be installed, as recently as 1958, and was unveiled by the President-designate of the Methodist Conference England, the Rev N H Snaith, M A, D D L H D This window, together with the other two windows of the Nativity and of the Ascension, completes the story of the Gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ

In colour this window is the most modest of all, as it ought to be The Central figure in the window is the Crucified Lord, who dominates the whole picture The artist with his characteristic originality has inscribed under the crown at the head of the Cross, in Hindi characters 'Ihodiya Raja', which mean 'The King of the Jews'¹⁴ This crown at the top end of the Cross declares that the God we love and worship, though broken, bleeding, yet unconquered, reigns from the Tree He has no other splendour than the splendour of the Cross

The Cross and the physical features of Jesus, hanging on the Cross, are so simple and natural that the sacredness of the picture is not marred by a splash of colours There is nothing guesome, nothing distasteful and nothing distracting about the main theme of the window. On the other hand one cannot fix his gaze on it for long, before he finds himself on his knees in the presence of the Divine Love, incarnate in Jesus the Saviour, and unconsciously saying within himself

³ A Private House of Prayer by Lashi Wachinwad, p 38

⁴ Mk 15 26

"Just as I am, and waiting not
To rid my Soul of one dark blot,
To Thee, whose blood can cleanse each spot,
O Lamb of God, I come"¹

Unlike the other two windows, this window along with the motif common to all the windows, the Rainbow, with all its glorious prismatic colours, separating the lower and upper regions has an additional rainbow encircling the Crucified Lord. The Cross is no longer a dark, dismal, distasteful and dreadful instrument of torture, but because Jesus the Saviour has died on it, He has transformed this man-invented evil into a Throne of Grace and Mercy, from which the Lord of all being dispenses the judgment of the world, by offering His verdict of universal, eternal, forgiveness to all mankind saying

'Father forgive them for they know not what they do'² Hence the additional glorious rainbow around the Lord, enthroned on the Cross³

The second encircles the central part of the Cross going round the Sacred Head, crowned with thorns with the inscription, 'Greater love hath no man than this'⁴

At the foot of the Cross kneeling and gazing on her Pierced Son is the Holy Mother, with the prediction of Simon, 'A sword will pierce through your own soul',⁵ fulfilled. Standing is the 'Beloved Disciple', looking at the Mother, as though comforting her. The scroll round the mother's head has the inscription, 'Surely He hath borne our griefs and carried our sorrows'⁶

The Parson says Here I must express a disappointment as it strikes an amateur¹. The first look at the person standing at the Cross gives the impression that it is the figure of a woman¹. At my first glance I wondered whether she was Salome, the mother of 'the Beloved Disciple', comforting the Mother¹. This might appear as trying to look for a dark spot in the glowing sun, but to a layman in art the figure looks more feminine than masculine, and my only comfort is that I am not solitary in this conjecture²

A little lower to the left, as we look at the window, we find a man, two women and a child. The man richly clad may be Nicodemus with his wife and child and a servant-maid behind them³. The man steeped in sorrow stands with his head bent, while the women with grief, unveiling their faces, together with the child are looking at the Crucified one. Their sadness is expressed in the inscription, 'He died that we might live'⁴

To the right, there is Mary Magdalene kneeling at the Cross of her Beloved Lord, with the characteristic devotion of a woman passionately in love with her Divine Master, with her head bent down. Her companion, another Mary not able to bear the look of the dying Lord on the Cross, is standing with grief written on her face. Between them is the Centurion with the spear in his hand, gazing on the One whom he had pierced in awe inspired bewilderment, exclaiming, 'Truly, this man was the Son of God'⁵

Right on the top is the Dove with wings spread out, looking towards the Cross below, as the Messenger of Peace descending on Jesus, even as it did at His baptism in the River Jordan

The Heavenly host around the Cross is blowing trumpets of victory which their Lord had won over Sin and Death, even the trumpets which caused the gates of heaven to be opened for every sinner, who obtains remission of sins through the redeeming Son of Man, 'Who loved us and gave Himself for us'⁶

The inscription at the bottom is in Telugu, though unfortunately hidden behind the concrete balustrade of the gallery, yet visible

'I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all men to myself'⁷

The Konarajus, Bommaraju and Santheraju, having lost their Kingdom, took refuge in the forests on the banks of the Maneru river along with Lingana, Chattanna, Konappa and Bappaiah, their chief ministers and Rangu and Gowru, their sisters. A Brahmin by name Seetharama Sarma having suffered the pangs of poverty deserted his family and was proceeding to Kasi. On his way near the Vindhya Mountains he met some siddhas (saints) and narrated his pathetic story. The siddhas took pity and gave him juice of siddha mulika called Parasavedi which could transmute iron into gold with a direction to use the money thus obtained for noble purposes. The Brahmin safely secured it in his vessel. On his return journey he stayed as a guest of Konarajus. He kept the vessel on the attic of pen and went to the river for a bath. Accidentally a drop of the juice fell on the iron tyre of a cart wheel which immediately turned into gold. The Konarajus who saw this took away the vessel and burnt the pen. On his return the Brahmin saw the burning pen and could not bear the disappointment. Hence he burnt himself to death in the fire. He became a spirit and troubled the Konarajus much. He ordered them to use the money for noble purposes such as construction of temples, tanks, etc.

Accordingly they constructed the Sita Ramaswamy temple in the name of the Brahmin. There are many tanks like Bommarajucheruvu, Santharajucheruvu, Ammacheruvu, Lingayakunta, Konayakunta, Chitayakunta constructed by them. Later they went to Veldurthi in Medak Taluk where they constructed many temples and installed deities.

COMMON HINDU FESTIVALS

1 Ugadi — (Telugu New Year's Day) is celebrated on Chaitra Suddha Padyami (March-April) by every Hindu Andhra whether rich or poor. As it is the supposed anniversary of the creation or the first day of the Satya-yuga¹, great sanctity is attached to this festival. This is a great day of joy and happiness, concord, affection and good will. There is a strong belief that this day's happenings forebode and colour the course of events in the entire year ahead. People naturally like pleasant things to happen to them on this day so that they may be happy throughout the year. Hence they take care to keep themselves and others in a happy mood on the Ugadi day. A child's demand, reasonable or unreasonable is met, though grudgingly, lest the family should be burdened with a weeping child throughout the year. Every effort is made to avoid tears and sad thoughts on this day. A sincere attempt is made to maintain a clear mind free from foul thoughts and ill-will towards others.

The years in Telugu calendar are not mere numbers like 1961, 1962, etc., with no significance and no end. They recur in a cycle of sixty years and the year's possibilities can be foreseen with reference to its performance in the past cycles. They have specific names indicating something pleasant (Subhakruthu), anger (Krodhi), disgrace, defeat or disappointment (Parabhava), enmity (Virodhi) and so on. Why and how this cycle and the names are fixed is a topic for research for generations. Whatever be the indication of the name of the New Year, it must be properly invited and inaugurated. All that the people can do is to be happy and thankful to the Lord when a year like Subhakruthu arrives or be cautious and pray to the Lord for his protection when a year like Parabhava comes.

Ugadi is also an occasion for the critical appraisal of the achievements during the closing year. It is an occasion for the issue of special volumes of the periodicals, special messages from religious and political leaders and special radio programmes. Everyone, everywhere and everything is made to appear happy and joyful. The general preparations for this important common festival are getting the houses whitewashed and providing every member of the family with new clothing depending upon the financial means of the family.

All persons get up early in the morning, clean the houses, decorate the floor inside the house and in front with Rangavalli (ornamental lines, figures and designs drawn with chunam or rice flour), take oil bath and generally put on new clothes except the poor class. It need hardly be said that Ugadi is the festival of the villagers. The housewives in the villages get up early in the morning and commence cooking sweets and side dishes. Festoons (usually made up of green mango leaves) are tied to the front door and also to the other doors inside. In Medak Revenue Division and particularly in the Narayankhed Taluk which borders the Mysore State bhakshyam is invariably prepared by all except the very poor class and even those that cannot afford the expenses are sure to receive the bhakshyam from the master or a more fortunate neighbour. Besides bhakshyam or other sweets, the special preparation called Ugadi Pachchaadi, or chedu or gajju is tasted by everyone before taking the first morsel of the day. Generally it is a semi-liquid preparation with new tamarind, fresh mango, fresh water, new jaggery or sugar and certain condiments, the chief ingredient being the petals of fresh margosa flowers. Even the poorest man does not fail to take in a few petals of margosa flowers with jaggery. The poorer class in the villages do not bother themselves with the several side dishes which the more fortunate upper classes can afford to have. The significance of taking in margosa flowers which are bitter along with jaggery which is sweet is apparently to make people realise and reconcile to the fact that life is a mixture of sorrows and joys. In some places hotels serve a little of this Vepa Prasadam before serving the menu ordered.

In towns and bigger places the day is of normal festivity and enjoyment till the evening. But in the villages unceasing activity, mirth and enjoyment are noticed. The feast will be over earlier than 10 O' Clock in the morning and men and women commence their own sports, games and competitions. Whereas cards and other competitions are the pastimes of the men, the women folk use every minute of the day for in door games and leisurely gossip on their new clothing, the new bangles and the tiny jewels.

Panchanga Sravanam in the evening is universally observed by the rich and the poor alike in all towns and villages. Hindus gather in temples in towns and at the Rachchakatta or Rachchabanda (the village community platform) or the temple in the villages. The new Panchangam (almanac) is worshipped and read by the Purohit. The general influence of the planets during the new year over the local Gods, men, cattle, crops, diseases, etc., and on particular individuals are given out by the Purohit. The presiding deity during the year over wind, rain, crops, cattle, health, etc., are also announced together with the together with the effects and percentages of yield of crops of different varieties. In Siddipet Revenue Division, prominence is given to Navagrahapuja. Before Panchangasravanam which is preceded by the worship of Panchangam (the year's almanac) the Navagrahas (the nine planets) viz., Surya, Chandra, Angaraka, Budha, Guru, Sukra, Sani, Rahu and Kethu are worshipped by the Purohit. As the year's happenings are influenced by these planets, some well-to-do families perform this worship in their houses in the morning. In order to earn the grace of auspicious ones and avert the evil effects of the others, this custom is special to this area. The functions in towns during the night are the procession of Gods and Kathakalakshepam in the usual manner. But the enjoyment in the village is continuous and enthusiastic.

The New Year's Day has a special significance for the ryot. He inaugurates the annual cultivation by ploughing five or nine rounds in his fields on the first day or on the day fixed by the village purohit to be auspicious. At times this is prolonged till Eruvaka. The yoke and the plough and the bulls are worshipped after applying vibhuti, turmeric powder and kumkum and a cocoanut is broken either at the house or in the field. In Narayankhed Taluk, this inauguration of agriculture on Telugu New Year's day is only for the rainy season crops and the function is repeated during Dasara for the second crop or the summer crop.

2 Sri Rama Navami is celebrated on Chaitra Suddha Navami (March-April). Sri Rama, the God-king was born to Dasaratha, the King of Ayodhya on the ninth lunar day in the bright fortnight of the month of Chaitra (March-April) in the Punarvasu lunar asterism. This festival is the anniversary of that auspicious day. Sri Rama as an ideal son, Bharatha and Lakshmana as ideal brothers, Sita as an ideal wife stand for posterity as standing examples.

“రామునంటి కొడుకు, భారత సోమశ్రులవంటి
Ramuvanti koduku, Bharatha Soumithrulavanti
తమ్ముల సీత వంటి భార్య
Thammulu Sita vanti bharya
వసుధ యందును లేచ లేరంచు
Vasudha yandunu leru leranachu
మండు యుగంబుల పురుషులు తలయూపవలదే
Mundu yugambula purushulu thalayupavalade
అరీతి చారు నడచు కొనవలదే”
Aareethi varu nadachu kona valade ”

On this day Sri Rama and his consort Sita, and his brothers Lakshmana, Bharatha, Sathrugghna, and his devoted Bhaktha Anjaneya are invoked. Sita and Sri Rama are worshipped according to prescribed rites. This is a common Hindu festival but celebrated chiefly by Brahmins, Vaisyas, and well-to-do families among the Hindus. Fast during the day by several people and jagarana during the night by some are observed. In the temples of Sri Rama, pattabishekam (coronation) of Rama is celebrated and his image or picture is taken in procession in which all Hindus participate. It is not a sectarian festival confined to only Vaishnavites. In the evenings distribution of panakam and panyayam in Sri Ramas' temples and in the houses is common. Bamboo fans are distributed to Brahmins. On the next day i.e., on Dasami there is annasantharpana in Sri Rama temples. In the houses also feasts are arranged. In some centres the celebration commences on Chaitra Suddha Padyami and pattabishekam being on Navami concludes on Purnima with car festival.

There is not generally any family that does not prepare panakam and vadappu and that does not break a cocoanut in the nearest Sri Rama or Hanuman temple. The poor have a feeling of festivity and sacredness of the day and observe it with sincere devotion to Lord Rama, contenting themselves by attending the Kalyanothsavam, procession or Havikathas. In rich places from free distribution of vadapappu and panakam on Ekadasi to free feeding on a decent scale on Dwadasi from an ordinary procession of the Lord to huge processions in decorated vehicles or cars accompanied by select music and fire works, from a simple marriage function of Sri Rama and Sita to costly celebration, taking place, Sri Rama Navami is common to one and all of the Hindus in the District

Lord Rama was born on Chaitra Suddha Navami (March-April) and it is appropriate that his birth-day anniversary should be celebrated that day. Great importance is attached to Sita Rama kalyanam, almost in every nook and corner of these districts. Sita Rama kalyanam has to be celebrated on his birthday because of the very great significance attached to the marriage of Lord Rama and Sitamatha. Just before Ramavathara, violence and counter violence were rampant disfiguring the earth with blood. The destruction of Karthaveeryarjuna, the hathya (killing) of Jamadagni by a power blinded king and the revenge of Jamadagni's son Parasurama who massacred the kingly line twenty one times, the atrocities of Ravana created a terror in the minds of Sadhus and Sajjanas (peace loving and good natured persons). They anxiously and fervently prayed for a satwagunayutha shakti to establish santi (peace) by destroying the thamogunayutha rakshasa. Ravana Rajogunayutha Janaka played his part in the noble task by giving Sita in marriage to Sri Rama who was incarnation of Vishnu, through santhakaram (personification of peace). But for this alliance of Sri Rama and Sita, the destruction of Ravana and the tamas which he stood for could not have been destroyed. Lord Rama exhibited his prowess by breaking the bow of Lord Siva, a symbol of rajas (రాజ) (combination of satwa and thamas) that rajas could not destroy thama. He then married Sita the symbol of satwa in order to establish santi sathyam and ahimsa (peace, truth and non-violence). Every lover of these performs Sita Rama kalyanam with very great devotion.

Of the ten incarnations of Lord Vishnu, Ramavatharam is of special importance to Andhras, as the scene of 14 years' exile is mostly in Andhra area. In fact passages in Mahabharatha indicate Andhra area supporting Kauravas in the great war and Vishnupuranam has gone a step further and mentioned that Krishna was anti-Andhras (చానూరంధ్ర నిషూదన్—Chanoorandhra nishoodhanundu)¹. Therefore Sri Rama Navami is of greater importance in Andhra, than Krishna Jayanti. Northern Andhra was Southern Kosala, the kingdom of the father of Kousalya, Lord Rama's mother. Thus Rama was the grandson of Andhras and he spent vanavasam in the land of his grandfather. It was Andhra that played the host to the exiled Rama and today his Navami is a great festival to the Andhras².

The celebrations performed after Navami are marked with feasts and enjoyment. The celebrations during the nine days from Chaitra Suddha Padyami to Navami are of special significance and the period is sometimes termed Garbhanavarathulu (nine days before the birth when the Lord was in the womb of his mother).

One practice that appears to be special in the bordering areas of Maharashtra is to sprinkle తలంబలు బియ్యం thalambalu biyyam (rice used for the marriage ceremony on the head)

3. Hanuman Jayanti is celebrated on Chaitra Suddha Purnima (March-April). This is a festival observed by a very few Brahmin families in other districts. In Medak District and particularly in Narayankhed area, this is a festival commonly observed both in towns and villages by the rich and the poor. This is due to the Maharashtra influence and in fact much prominence is given to Hanuman temple and Hanuman worship in this area during all the Hindu festivals. Just as special importance is attached to Saiva temples in some places and to Vaishnava temples in some other places, special importance is attached to Hanuman in this area. Samartha Ramadas, the Guru of Shivaji, held Hanuman as his family God and established as many as hundred and eight Hanuman temples, most of them in Maharashtra and a few in Telangana area. One of them is near Nizamabad. Vyasarayaswamy, a Madhava saint, also gave prominence to Hanuman and he too established an equal number of temples most of them in Karnataka area and a few in Rayalaseema. One in Alur Taluk and another in Adoni are of great importance even to day. The prominence of these temples even now is due to the fact that several devotees get relief from physical and mental troubles and have their prayers granted. As mentioned above prominence is given to the worship of Anjaneya by all Hindu communities during all their festivals. In general, Lord Hanuman is held in high reverence as the great devotee of Lord Rama, a bachelor and controller of evil spirits, throughout the length and breadth of India. In the Narayankhed area this is a common festival for all. Several families observe this in Medak Revenue Division and a few in other parts of the district. During the festival, houses and temples are decorated with festoons of green mango leaves and muggulu are drawn on the floor. The devotees take oil bath and worship Lord Hanuman at home and in temples. Several families have idols of the Lord in their houses. They apply sandal paste and offer payasam prepared out of rice and jaggery. The same is done in temples on a larger scale and payasam is distributed to children. All mothers make it a point that her children take in a little prasadam as a protection against balagaham and other evil spirits during the year Bhajans and Havikathas and processions are arranged.

4. Basava Jayanti is celebrated as a national festival throughout Karnataka and all Kannadigas, irrespective of caste or creed, acknowledge him as their own and vie with one another in popularising his teachings and propagating his message.

The message of this Messiah of the 12th century is nothing but the message of Mahatma Gandhi with some terminological alterations here and there. So striking is the similarity between their social philosophies that one is apt to forget the vast gulf of eight hundred years between them. This similarity was quickly recognised by the Mahatma and when he visited Karnataka for the first time to propogate his mission he came to understand the life and teachings of Basaveswara and remarked that he had nothing new to preach to the people of Karnataka.

This aspect of life and teachings of Basaveswara was not recognised in his own homeland till a great oriental scholar, the late Sir James Campbell drew the attention of all towards it as early as 1918. According to him

"It was the distinctive feature of his (Basaveswara's) mission that while illustrious religiousists and social reformers in India before him has each laid his emphasis on one or the other items of religious and social reforms, either subordinating more or less the other items to it, or ignoring them altogether, Basava sketched and boldly tried to work out a large and comprehensive programme of social reform with the elevation and independence of womanhood as its guiding point.

Neither the social conferences which are annually held in these days in several parts of India nor Indian social reformers can improve upon that programme as to the essentials. The present day social reformer in India is but speaking the language, and seeking to enforce the mind of Basava."

Since then a galaxy of gifted authors and research scholars of different castes and creeds including Sri R. R. Dewakar, have, after years of patient labour, unearthed the hidden treasure of his life and salvaged the vachana literature which enjoys the pride of place in Kannada literature. This vachana literature is nothing but the spontaneous out-pourings of thoughts and ideas of Basaveswara and his associates, a host of God-intoxicated free-thinkers, both men and women, assembled under the banner of Basava and from all strata of society, from the humblest and the lowest to the highest, covering the entire country from Kashmir to Cape Comorin, noble heroes of a new order! This reformation movement spread to the surrounding provinces and everywhere the fallen and forsaken found in it the one hope of their emancipation from the age-long evil that reigned over society in the name of religion and began to track their way towards Kalyan, the seat of this new awakening under the leadership of Basava.

In the words of Dr. C. R. Reddy, Basava is one of the greatest reformers that India has produced, a resolute and independent thinker and also a man of resolute and independent conduct, a rare instance of powerful will combined with powerful intellect. He met many problems of his time with remarkable success and the general principles of his life and the philosophy he enunciated stand good for all times with the necessary modifications which each generation has to think out for itself and incorporate.

This great savant and servant of humanity fulfilled his life's mission at Kalyan, about sixty miles from Gulbarga. Born at Bagewadi in or about 1132 A.D. in a pious Brahmin family, he raised the banner of revolt in his boyhood against the over-formal and ritualistic religion of the day.

and went in search of the divine light. He found his guru, Jataveda Muni, at the confluence of Krishna and Malapaharī (Kudal Sangam, Bijapur District) and started his study of the scriptures and spent his time in divine joy and meditation.

But soon the call for action came. He accepted Prime Ministership under a King Bujjala of Kalyan, not for selfish aggrandizement but for the redemption of humanity. Soon after assuming office, he launched his socio-religious reformation movement and founded the Anubhava Mantapam academy of spiritual experience under the august presidentship of Allama Prabhu, an eminent Yogi of the day. The gates of this Mantapam were thrown open for all men and women of all communities, castes and creeds. Men of all classes from the prince to the peasant were members of the Anubhava Mantapam (also called Anubhavanamanatapam) and even women participated in the spiritual discourses and dialogues held there. Elevation and advancement of womanhood, equality of all human beings in a society based on the equality of opportunity for all, abolition of castes and caste-distinctions and with it the ruthless elimination of untouchability, the replacement of the thousand and one gods and goddesses that still continue to haunt the Hindu society by a firm belief in the one and only God, removal of all religious dogmas and superstitions and establishment of a religion of reason and compassion, denouncement of all religious sacrifices and animal slaughter in their name, renouncement of gross materialism, purity of mind, body and one's avocations, moral excellence, voluntary acceptance of a life of service and sacrifice wishing the well being of all living beings, and determination to make this world alone the heaven of heavens—these were the distinctive features of this humanitarian and democratic movement of Basava—a mass movement to the core. Basava enjoined upon all his followers to strive for self-purification and more self-purification to pursue any honest kayaka or means of livelihood and not to live upon the earnings of others, to lead a simple and pious life and to surrender all his savings for social service, to be non-violent, kind and compassionate, non-offending, truthful to the last and to be good and to do good only.

The following vachana of Basava will show how much emphasis he laid on moral values :-

"Does not the crow call all its group at seeing a morsel of food? Does not the cock make a call for its kith and kin at seeing a few grains? A devotee of Siva who has no such feeling is worse than cocks and crows."

"Steal not, kill not, let no untruth stain thy lips, have no impatience with other men, do not praise yourself, this is inward purity, this is outward purity, this is the way of pleasing the Lord Koodala Sanga"—

Thus Basaveswara showed to the down-trodden masses the way of man's integral self-transcendence in their own mother tongue, Kannada and brought about the greatest revolution in India after Buddha and before Mahatma Gandhi. But, the fate of Christ has been the fate of all revolutionaries. The cross is the reward for all pioneers of progress. Basava's non-violent revolution also resulted in regicide after the bold and somewhat hasty matrimonial alliance between one Haralayya, an untouchable, and Madhuvvarasa, a Brahmin. The reactionary forces made a supreme effort to stem the tide of this humanist movement and succeeded in it. Basava, broken hearted, sought refuge at the feet of his guru at Sangameswara and spent the rest of his life in communion with the infinite.

Basava Jayanti, i.e., the birthday of Basava is celebrated on Vaisakha Suddha Vidiya or Tadiya (April-May) during Rohini Nakshatram. In Andhra where a few Veerasaivas are scattered here and there, it is observed by worshipping the photo of the great socio-religious reformer and offering navediyam. It is becoming more and more popular as the people of the district are improving in education and culture and understanding for themselves the unifying force in Hindu society of the teachings of Basava whom they were hitherto worshipping and venerating almost in blind faith according to tradition.

Basava's picture is taken in procession and special pujas are offered in the temples of Siva and Basava. Meetings are held in the evening and lectures on the gospel of untouchability, castelessness, prohibition from intoxicants, social equality and economic self-sufficiency, truth and non-violence are delivered.

During the Jayanti, equal importance is given to the life, teachings and mission of Akka. Akka is Akkamahadevi, the great Veerasaiva devotee who has enriched the vachana literature and Basava's philosophy and merged into Lord Mallikarjuna of Srisaialam travelling on foot all the way from Bagewadi in the Mysore State explaining on the way Basava's philosophy to vast crowds and making a name in the Anubhava Mantapam by her precepts and example

It is a day of feast for the well-to-do, who arrange poor feeding and distribute clothing. For the cultured and the reformed, it is a day of introspection and realisation that here is an opportunity to bring the hundreds of Hindu sub-castes under one banner.

In Medak Revenue Division and particularly in Narayankhed area special pujas are performed in the temples of Hanuman during Basava Jayanti. Processions of Basava invariably pass before Hanuman temples and in places where there is no temple for Basava the procession starts from the local Hanuman temple. In all other districts, the procession starts from the house of a Jangam or other leader of the Lingayat community and terminates at a temple or a public meeting.

5 Nagula Chaviti is observed either on Sravana Suddha Chaviti (July-August) or Kartika Suddha Chaviti (October-November). A person whose father, mother or any other relation happens to have died by snake bite is specially instructed to perform this ceremony, a part of which consists of offering milk to snakes with the object of propitiating them. In this district it is performed only in Siavanam both on Chaviti and on Panchami. The observance in this district differs in more than one respect from that in other districts. In fact it is known more as Nagula Panchami than as Nagula Chaviti. On Chaviti nine small nagulu (cobras) are prepared with earth, generally black cotton soil, placed on a clean plank and worshipped with pasupu, kumkum, flowers and tiny silver eyes and hoods and finally bathed in small quantity of fresh cow's milk. They fast the whole day. On the next day they go to the ant-hills, worship them with flowers, pasupu, kumkum and tiny silver eyes and hoods, pour fresh cow's milk into the ant hill, break cocoanuts, offer fruits, chalmidi, etc., and do piadakshina to the ant-hill. The practice of taking earth of the ant-hill home and drawing cobras on the walls is not known in this district. The practice of sisters offering this earth in the name of puttabangaru to brothers is also unknown. Only a little earth is taken and applied to persons who suffer from skin-diseases or ear trouble. The women bring back a little of the milk from the ant-hill and apply a few drops to the eyes of their brothers, fathers and other male members of the family for their good health during the year and in return receive presents from them. One practice peculiar to this and Nizamabad District is that jonna pelalu (puffed cholam) is prepared in every family, offered to nagulu and the ant-hill, and preserved till Vinayaka Chaviti. It is this pelalu that is consumed by those who happen to see the Moon on Vinayaka Chaviti in order to safeguard themselves against the evil effects of the crescent Moon that day. This festival is celebrated on a modest scale by one and all in towns and villages. The poorer classes, however, content themselves with a mere salutation to an ant-hill.

In Medak District Nagula Panchami is observed in Siavanam and also in Kartikam. In Kartikam, it is observed only on Panchami. This is mostly confined to women and the Panchami observances of Sravanam are repeated. On this occasion women wear a new jacket and new bangles.

6. Varalakshmi Vratam is celebrated on a Friday generally on the Friday preceding the Full Moon Day in Sravanam (July-August) for prosperity and for begetting worthy children based on the following legend. A Brahmin woman by name Padmavati in the Kosala Kingdom was very pious, dutiful to her husband, hospitable to the sick, poor and needy. Goddess Varalakshmi appeared before her in a dream and ordained her to observe the Varalakshmi Vratam on the Friday preceding the Full Moon Day in Siavanam. Accordingly she performed the vratam, obtaining the permission of her husband. The muthaidivas get up before sunrise and bathe in the nearby river, tank or well, clean the puja room and prepare a spot for the worship by smearing cow dung. The spot is decorated with muggu (designs with flour on the borders and the centre). Over the central design a measure of rice is heaped up and a kalasam is kept over it. A small bamboo mantapam covers the whole spot. Varalakshmi is invoked with mantrams and worshipped with flowers and by offering nevedyam of nine kinds of preparations and with the following dhyanam.

“వంజే లక్ష్మీం పరమేశ్వరయ్యాం శుద్ధ జాంబూ

They wear nine rounds of saffron coloured thread to their right wrists Muthaiduvay (women in married status) are invited, havathi is offered, flowers and thambulam are distributed Vayanams are given to a few Brahmin women keeping them in a new winnow—fruits, flowers, thambulam, dakshina, new clothes and the nine varieties of preparations at the rate of twelve each, and covering all with another new winnow. The festival is confined to Brahmins and well-to-do Vaisyas. A few Veerasaiva and non-Brahmin families also observe it as an annual festival on one of these Fridays, based on a different legend, with some slight modifications. The legend is that Veerasimha, the king of Maghada prayed Lord Siva to save his subjects from pests and famine. Lord Siva appeared before him in a dream and advised him the efficacy of Sravana Sukravara Vratam and that the king ordained his queen, children and all the subjects that they should perform the vrata. The observance resulted in relief and subsequent prosperity to the kingdom. In some cases pūja and navedya are offered not to the kalasam at home but to the Sivalingam in a temple. The following is the dhyanam adopted by this group of worshippers.

“నమస్తే నమస్తే మహాదేవ శంభో

The concerned legends are recited and listened to. In this district, this festival is confined only to the Brahmin and Vaisya women and few non-Brahmin women of status.

7 Rakhi Punnama — This common festival is celebrated on Sivana Suddha Purnima (July–August) in Medak District. This festival is observed throughout Southern India by Brahmins, Vaisyas and Kshatriyas when they change their yagnopaveethams. The Marwadis of Medak District also observe this practice of changing yagnopaveethams. They perform pūja and offer navedya to the family Gods, and change the yagnopaveetham. In Medak District, Sales (weavers) who form a decent percentage of the population, along with several other non-Brahmin families call this as Rakhi Punnama and observe it as a day of festivity with worship and special offerings and feasts. The main function is the wearing of rakhi or raksha bandhams on their right hands. A coloured thick paper in the form of a circular disc is tied round the right wrist of a male member with red silk thread by a sister, as a protective talisman for the year.

8 Sri Krishna Jayanti is celebrated on Sravana Bahula Ashtami and Navami (July–August). The first day is Lord Krishna's birthday. Sri Mahavishnu took this as His eighth incarnation of His 10 avathars.

According to the Bhagavatha Purana, Kamsa, a demon, took a vow to kill all the children born to his sister Devaki, because he was told that his destroyer would be her child. Accordingly, he imprisoned his sister Devaki and her husband Vasudeva and kept strict vigilance over them. Devaki immediately after her accouchment, fell a sleep, and a general torpor seized all the guards at the prison, due to the spell known as *Yogamaya*¹ of Sri Krishna. During her sleep her husband Vasudeva carried away the new born babe from the prison where it was born to the house of Yasoda, the wife of Nanda, on the other side of the Yamuna, and from there brought a female child which he placed by the side of his sleeping wife. The serpent

¹ Yogamaya is personified delusion. The great illusory energy of Vishnu, by whom the whole world is deluded. In the Markandeya Purana she appears as Durga, but in the Vishnu Purana as Vaishnavi.

king Vasuki followed Vasudeva across the Yamuna, with his hood opened out to protect the infant God from the inclemency of the weather and it is said that the river made way at the place where Vasudeva crossed it

Sri Krishna was born in the night. The general observance is to fast the whole day. His decorated image or His picture is kept in a cradle and worshipped indicating His birth. Some worship the figure of His mother Devaki sitting on a cot and feeding the baby. On the following evening there is a procession of the Lord and in every street there is a celebration of utlu. An inverted U-shaped bamboo frame is erected and a pulley fixed in the middle over which a rope is passed. To one end of the rope a small bamboo basket is tied and a coconut and a few rupees are placed in it. The basket is decorated all around with coloured cloth and heads of maize. The other end of the rope is pulled up and down tempting competitors to catch and take the contents of the basket which is called utti. As the competitors try to catch, the utti is pulled up and water thrown against their faces. This function is organised almost in every street of the town through which the procession passes. In towns only the Vaishnavites and a few other Hindus fast. In the villages also one or two members in the Vaishnavite families fast and perform the festival in their homes. In a few places, the Krishna temples are first washed with jaggery water and then with plain water in the morning and the usual functions held within the temple. In villages, vayanams are given to the Brahmin purohits and jacket clothes to Brahmin muthaidivas. Vayanam is a day's ration, complete in itself with tamarind, salt and all kept in a new winnow and offered to a purohit. It is observed by all on a modest scale, with simple devotion and a feeling of festivity.

9. Vinayaka Chaviti is a common Hindu festival celebrated by the rich and poor of the Hindu community, the scale of celebrations depending on the social status of the family. This is celebrated on the fourth day of the waxing moon in the month of Bhadi apadam (August-September).

Vinayaka Chaviti is preceded by Gowri puja on Tadiya. In Medak District it looks as if Vinayaka Chaviti is inaugurated by Gowri puja. An image of Gowridevi (Parvati), mother of Vinayaka prepared in saffron is worshipped and sixteen puddings are offered. The festival is a common one observed generally from one to three days at home and for nine days in the temples.

Ganesa is the Hindu God of wisdom. All sacrifices and religious ceremonies, all serious compositions in writing and all worldly affairs of importance are begun by pious Hindus with an invocation to Ganesa, a word composed of isa, the governor or leader, and gana, a company (of deities). He is represented as a short fat figure of yellow or red colour having four hands and the head of an elephant with a single tusk. He is the son of Parvati, who is supposed to have formed Him from the scurf of Her body. There are many versions to account for the formation of His head, one of which is that Siva beheaded Him for disobeying His orders but was requested to restore Him to life, which was done only by the addition of a sleeping elephant's head. He is represented as riding a rat. He is the remover of all vighnams (obstacles) and is one of the most popular of Hindu deities. He is the patron of learning and is said to have written the Mahabharata to the dictation of the sage Vyasa. The Ganesa or Vinayaka Chaturthi is observed in commemoration of the birthday of Ganesa.

Except the poorer classes, each house worships an earthen image of Lord Ganesa (Ganapati) in their house. It is also a practice to have darsan of at least 5 such images. Special preparations such as undrallu, kudumulu supposed to be the favourites of Ganesa are prepared and offered. On a subsequent day suitable to each family, the image is taken to a well, worshipped there and immersed in water. All Hindus under a superstitious belief avoid seeing the moon that day to safeguard themselves against unmerited accusations during the subsequent twelve months. If by chance, they see the Moon, they listen to the legend of Sathrajit in which Lord Krishna was subjected to an accusation for having seen the reflection of the Moon that day in a cup of milk. By so doing they are supposed to be absolved of the evil effects of seeing the Moon. Taking a few chulam pelalu (puffed chulam) preserved from Nagula Chaviti also nullifies the evil effects of seeing the Moon.

In Medak District, though the festival does not rank with Dasara or Deepavali, the duration of celebrations and the popular enthusiasm mark it as a much looked for festival. In towns and villages not only the rich but also the poor have a mud image of Ganapati for worship. Each village has at least two or three good sized images under specially erected pandals for at least eleven days Chathurthi to Chathurdasi is the general rule and the period is prolonged to fifteen days or even 21 days in important centres of big towns. At each centre special and different offerings are made to the idol throughout the period, undiallu being prominent on Chaviti. Harkathas and recital of the story of Samanthakamani afford entertainment at nights. One other practice in the district is that each centre invites a few other centres at least every day to take part in the celebrations at that centre. The send off on the last day, whether it is the 11th, 15th or 17th will be an imposing one, the image being taken in a procession on a decorated motor vehicle and immersed in the nearby tank, river or well.

This prominence to Vinayaka Chaviti is due to the Maharashtra influence of the neighbouring districts. The Maharashtras have given great prominence to Ganapati and in fact it is under the banner of this Lord that late revered Balagangadhara Tilak brought all the branches of Hindus, including Vaishnavites, together. In this district Vaishnavites too observe the festival and worship Karthikeya (in human form) who is believed to be Lord Ganesa.

In fact, in this district the season of festivity inaugurated on Bhadrapada Suddha Tadiya with Gowri puja seems to terminate only with Dasara on Asviniyuja Suddha Dasami (September-October). Close on the conclusion of the Ganapati Navarathrulu and the immersion of the Lord in well, tank or river and the conclusion of Mahalaya Paksham on Mahalaya Amavasya, Bhadrapada Bahula Amavasya, one hears the sweet songs of young girls inaugurating Boddemma Panduga that commences on Bhadrapada Bahula Padyami (August-September) and ends on Mahalaya Amavasya only to be continued by the elderly folk in the name of Brathakamma Panduga from Asviniyuja Suddha Padyami. Every family prepared a rectangular plank of mud of considerable thickness with pits on it, equal to the number of persons in the family. It is worshipped with flowers, kumkum and pasupu. Each member puts a little rice into one of the pits for nine days and worships it daily. During this period the children play their own part. Every evening they dance round a group of 'gobbenimalu' decorated with pasupu, kumkum and a variety of flowers. They preserve each day's gobbenimalu till the last day. On the last day appalu prepared with the flour of the rice in the pits and jaggery are offered to Boddemma. Later the plank is taken in a procession and immersed in a river, tank or well. The fortnight's store of gobbenimalu are also taken by children with the procession and immersed.

10. Mahalaya Amavasya is celebrated on Bhadrapada Bahula Amavasya (August-September). The day of the New Moon in this month when the Sun is in the sign Virgo (Kanya) is known as Mahalaya Amavasya. This day of the conjunction of the Sun and the Moon is considered by all Hindus to be especially set apart for the making of oblations and performance of religious ceremonies to the pitrus or the spirits of departed ancestors. The Itihasa, a great authority on the religious rights of the Hindus, says that the moment the sun enters the sign Virgo (Kanya) the departed manes leaving the world of Yama, the destroyer, come down to the world of man and occupy the houses of their descendants in this world. Therefore, the fortnight preceding the New Moon of the month of Kanya is considered as specially sacred for propitiation of the departed spirits. The ceremonies performed in their honour each day of this fortnight are considered to be equal in merit to those performed in the sacred city of Gaya¹. It is the special function of the nearest male relative of the deceased to make offerings (pinda) to the ancestors in both lines for three generations back. By this act he establishes his claim to inheritance.

* Gobbenimalu are small cuboids of cowdung with bases bigger than the tops.

¹ Every Hindu is enjoined to visit Gaya at least once in his life-time to perform the funeral ceremonies of his ancestors and to offer pindas in their honour.

The fortnight is known as ta.pata¹ paksha (the fortnight of offerings), the ceremonies as śradha²

In this district it is observed as an ordinary festival by the Brahmin and Vaisya families. Offering pādams to the souls of the departed ancestors is the function of the day. Vaisyas also observe the festival in the same way. Some of the non-Brahmins content themselves by giving a Brahmin a day's ration in the name of the departed ancestors.

In fact, this is the culminating day of a fortnight known as Mahalya Paśśam or Mahalaya fortnight during which fortnight ceremonies of the departed souls are performed. This is called in villages as Pithavula Amasa, Petharla Amasa or Peddala Amasa. Some of the Sudras believe that the souls of those that died during the year remain as spirits and join the ancestors only after the ceremony on Mahalaya Amavasya. They then feel that the dead have joined the ancestors.

Some of these non-Brahmins and non-Vaisyas give a day's ration to a Jangam in the name of the departed elders on Śivana Bahula Amavasya (July-August) terming it Pitru Amavasya. This practice prevails in areas where the influence of Jangams who have no belief in Pitru Loka has established itself.

In Narayankhed Taluk where there are a number of families of Jangams kalasa puja is performed in the name of the departed elders. They have no belief in Pitru Loka and do not observe pitru paksham but prepare kalasam to represent the elders and worship them.

11 Brathakamma Paṇḍuga is celebrated for 9 days from Asvīyujā Suddha Padyami to Navami (September–October). It is said that a Vaisya couple had a son and a daughter named Brathakamma. After the marriage Brathakamma went to the mother-in-law's house. Her brother and her brother's wife were with her parents, whom Brathakamma had to leave behind consequent on her going to her mother-in-law's house. She and her husband were invited by her parents for Mahalaya Amavasya i.e., on Bhadrapada Bahula Amavasya (September–October). Brathakamma was sent by her husband to her parents' house, promising that he would join her at her parents' house for Dasara festival i.e., on Asvīyujā Suddha Dasami (September–October). A couple of days after her arrival at her parents' house, the parents had to go to a neighbouring village. Brathakamma and her sister-in-law were invited for an auspicious function by the neighbours. She wore one of her sister-in-law's saree for the occasion and it got soiled due to smearing of sandal paste, turmeric powder, etc. This was misconstrued by the sister-in-law as wanton soiling of the saree by Brathakamma. The heartless sister-in-law induced her thoughtless husband to do away with his sister failing which she threatened she would divorce him. Brathakamma's brother took her out during the absence of the parents on the pretext that there was an urgent call from her husband and killed her in the midst of a thick forest and buried her body by the side of the path. Brathakamma manifested herself on her grave as a flower tree. Her sister-in-law made the parents believe that she was sent to her husband on an urgent call. But a day before Dasami, her husband started for the mother-in-law's house according to his previous

¹ Generally speaking the ta.pana cannot be performed by a woman, by a man whose parents are alive, or by a Brahmin not endowed with sacred thread.

² According to the Hindu belief of the future life there are two paths followed by souls of different states of development according to their karma (actions). The saints who have fulfilled their karma travel by the Devayana, the way of the Gods, through the rays of the sun and never return to be reborn on earth. Ordinary souls which have yet to finish the cycle of transmigration, travel by the Dhūmanayana of the seven planes, but they can only reach two, Svarloka, heaven or Bhuvāloka, the astral plane, according to the life they have led in the world. The souls of ordinary mortals will, it is believed, always remain tied to earth, and eventually become evil spirits tormenting mankind, unless the śradha ceremonies are duly performed to help them on their way to Yama. For the first ten days after death the ceremonies performed by the relatives are to help the disembodied spirit to obtain a form or preta-body, which will carry it on to its appointed pilgrimage. This is supposed to be effected by the pinda offerings, the food presented to the spirit and by recitation of appropriate mantras. When the preta-body is fully formed on the tenth day it feeds on the pinda and offerings of milk. On the thirteenth day after death the soul is equipped for its solemn journey. There are twelve stages in the pilgrimage, each stage taking a month to fulfil. Throughout the twelve months the relatives follow the departed spirit with the śradha ceremonies, sixteen in number, performed at stated times to provide it with sustenance and to prepare it for the goal. When at last it is reached the preta-body is dissolved. The soul now becomes a pitru, and assumes another body adopted for enjoying heavenly enjoyment or for suffering the pains of hell. In this state it comes before the judge, Yama, the Lord of pitrus. When the souls have enjoyed their bliss or suffered their allotted punishment, they are again reborn on earth to fulfil the remainder of their karma.

promise On the way he was very much attracted by the flower tree on his wife's grave and attempted to pluck out flowers to present them to his beloved wife He heard a voice saying meaning, ‘touch me not my Lord, touch me not The sinful sister-in-law has got me killed and the heartless brother has killed me’

Unable to make out anything from it, he straight went to his mother-in-law's house where he was stunned to hear that his wife was sent for by him and that she had been already taken to his house Recapitulating the words heard on his way, he led the parents-in-law to the spot where the strange flower tree stood When his mother-in-law tried to pluck out a flower, she was warned by the voice from the tree—

‘ముట్టకు ముట్టకు మా అమ్మ
Muttaṭaku muttaṭaku ma amma
ముట్టబోకు మా అమ్మ

meaning, ‘touch me not mother, touch me not The sinful sister-in-law has got me killed and the heartless brother has killed me’ The culprits thereupon confessed the truth

In her memory an image of Brathakamma is prepared annually by every Hindu family that can afford to with a variety of flowers It would be more appropriate to say that huge heaps of several varieties of flowers are piled up on a big plank, plate or tray representing Brathakamma and worshipped Women dance round the heap in a circle singing the life of Brathakamma As Brathakamma reached her parents' home happily on the day previous to Padyami and her husband started on Navami, this panduga commences on Padyami, continues day after day with great pomp and devotion till Ashtami On the ninth day heaps of flowers of maximum size are arranged on planks or plates or trays and are taken in procession to a nearby flowing river, if there is one, or to a tank or a well There the containers of the flower heaps are taken to deep water and slowly removed from under the flower heaps leaving them to remain floating intact on the water or floating down a stream or river for several days afterwards, presenting a pleasant sight

12 Dasara is a festival of 10 days from Asviniyuja Suddha Padyami to Dasami (September-October)

It is believed that it is the anniversary of the day when Bhagiratha¹ the ancestor of Sri Rama brought down the river Ganga from heaven Dasahaya means removal of ten sins (dasa = ten i.e., ten sins and hara that which removes or expiates) Dasara or Vijaya Dasami is perhaps a corrupt form of the word Dasahaya The legend has it that Brahma as the head of the Gods prayed to the Goddess Durga for protection of Sri Rama and destruction of Ravana who were engaged in a mortal combat The Goddess answered the prayer on this day and Ravana was killed A second version is that Sri Rama, after abduction of his wife by Ravana, came to know of Sita being kept under the Asoka tree in Lanka (Ceylon) and set out with his huge army to rescue her on this day which ended successfully Every Hindu Raja consequently considered this day the most auspicious one for setting out to wage war The whole of the period of ten days beginning from the first day of the bright half of Asviniyuja (September-October) is devoted to the worship of Durga in South India

Vijayadasami is common to all Hindus irrespective of caste or status Besides the usual cleaning of residences, bath and wearing of new clothes, the special function of the occasion is to go to the sami tree in the evening with music, worship the sami tree and offer sami leaves to friends, relatives and elders wishing them well and asking for blessings. While offering the leaves the higher classes pronounce the following sloka

“శమీ శమయతే పాపం
“Sami samayathe papam

శమీ శత్రు వినాశనం
Sami sathru vinasanam

అర్జునస్య ధనుర్ధారి
Arjunasya Dhanurdhari

రామస్య ప్రీయదర్శనమ్
Ramasya priyadarshanam ”

meaning, ‘Sami destroys sin, extinguishes enemies on that sacred day of Asviniyuja Suddha Dasami. Arjuna took up the bow and Lord Rama rejoined Sita’

Wearing new clothes is not a general order. Only the rich enjoy the privilege. The poor put on their best and cleanest preserved for the occasion. During the preceding nine days grouped as Navarathrulu or Devi Navarathuulu, Goddess Parvati is worshipped throughout the week and the festival is observed in different ways at different places and by different communities. On the sixth day all Brahmin and Vaisya families and a few non-Brahmin families perform Saraswati puja. They arrange the books, worship Saraswati (the Goddess of learning) and offer navediyam.

The eighth day is a day of Durga puja or Durgashtami on which day all devotees worship Durga in this district. On the ninth day, the Brahmins perform puja to the family Gods, while the Vaisyas worship weights and measures. The agriculturist, carpenters, barbers, etc., worship the implements they generally use in their profession. The agriculturist, for example, worships his plough, scythe, spade, etc. Other weapons such as guns, daggers, swords, etc., are cleaned and decorated and puja performed. In the modern days, the motor vehicles are invariably washed, decorated with turmeric, kumkum and flowers and puja is performed by burning incense.

In villages Ayudha puja is performed on any of the convenient days from Ashtami to Dasami.

In this district Dasara is celebrated by one and all. On this occasion houses are invariably cleaned and whitewashed. New clothes are purchased by one and all according to their economic status. Sons-in-law are invited by their parents-in-law and the entire period of ten days is a period of gaiety and festivity. This festival occupies the first place in the district on account of the coincidence of more than one custom, which is not so in other districts. The importance given to Durga puja is no less than that in districts where Dasara means only Durga puja or Devi Navarathu'u. Saraswati puja and Ayudha puja are as important as in any other district.

Another interesting feature in this district is that after worship of the sami tree, the villagers are particular of having the daisan of Palapitta, a bird with rich plumage which is generally associated with Garuda, the sacred kite and vehicle of Lord Vishnu. They return home only after having a glimpse of the bird.

In Medak Revenue Division and particularly in Narayanekhed Taluk, Pa'apitta is also called Neelakantapakshi or Dasarapitta or Darsarapitta. In this area a sword is also worshipped along with the jamm or sami tree and during the processional march to the sami tree green stems of cholam are held by the children.

Durga puja is not confined to Durga or other Shakti temples in this district. Several families worship ghatans (new earthen vessels decorated with pasupu, kumkum, etc.) during the Navarathis and at the conclusion of the festival gift them to Brahmins, Jangams, Dasaris, etc.

13. Deepavali and 14. Dhanalakshmi Puja — Deepavali, also called Naraka Chathurdasi, is celebrated on Asviniyuja Bahula Chathurdasi (September-October). Dhanalakshmi puja comes off on the New Moon Day (Amavasya) of Asviniyuja. All Hindus believe that Lord Krishna along with his consort Satyabhama killed Narakasura and returned home early in the morning on this day. Being an occasion for rejoice, elders and youngsters get up early in the morning, take oil bath and celebrate the festival with a display of fire works. It is a day of festivity with special food preparations. There is display of fire works in the night.

In towns and nearby villages in this district, hundreds of oil lamps are placed on pials and compound walls of their houses by the rich. The merchant class, particularly the Marwaris perform Dhanalakshmi pūja in the night inviting friends and relatives. The Marwaris commence accounts of the year on that day.

Marwaris issue special invitations to friends and customers for the pūja of Dhanalakshmi. All money due to them is collected and worshipped along with kalasam decorated with jewels at their residences while the picture of Lakshmi is worshipped at the place of business. Fruits, flowers and thambulam are distributed. In some cases there is what is known as chadivumpulu which is the presentation of a small amount by the invitees as a good wish for the next year's prosperous business.

In this district this festival is held next in importance to Dasara. In towns and villages an atmosphere of festivity prevails in every family. Newly wedded daughters and sons-in-law are invited for the festival. This is an eagerly looked for festival in towns and villages. Pulveshams, etc., afford entertainment.

In Narayankhed area, a kalasam is prepared with a particular kind of grass known as kasigaddi, over which is placed an earthen oil lamp. Then the kalasam is kept on a dung heap and worshipped. A cow is also worshipped and offered naivedyam.

15 Subrahmanya Shashṭi takes place on the sixth lunar day in the bright fortnight of Margashirā (November–December). Subrahmanyaswamy, generally known as Kumaraswamy, is the God of War and the General of the army of the Gods. He is the son of Siva and Durga, is mounted on a peacock with a bow and spear in his hands. He is depicted as very handsome. It is said that woman who have no male children especially propitiate him to beget a son as handsome and courageous as Subrahmanya.

It is the celebration of the birth of Kumata-swamy to save devas and Brahmins from the Danava Tarakasura, who had acquired such a boon that none but the son of Lord Siva could kill him. Insulted by her own father Daksha, Parvati had burnt herself in the father's sacrificial fire and was reborn as the daughter of Himavanta. Lord Siva was doing severe penance so that he could marry Parvati and beget the saviour of the world. Manmatha disturbed Siva's penance and got himself burnt to ashes for the benefit of the Universe. Lord Siva married Parvati and birth of Kumaraswamy was an event of great joy to the whole Universe.

Subrahmanya Shashṭi in this district is confined to a very few Brahmin families.

Fasting, pūja, offering coconuts and naivedyam are the rituals observed. One special feature on this occasion is to invite a Brahmin bachelor, honour him, feed him and give him new clothing. Reading and listening to the story of the birth of Kumaraswamy is another function which is believed to bring prosperity to those that participate in it.

16 Sankranti—Makarā Sankranti or Uttarayana Sankranti is the Sun's entrance into the sign Capricornus (Makara), which is identified with the Uttarayana or return of the Sun to the North or to the winter solstice. The festival marks the return of the Sun to the northern hemisphere. It is observed from 13th to 15 January generally and also on the 16th in the coastal districts of Andhra. It is also known as Pongal in Southern India and is dedicated to the glorification of agriculture. In the coastal districts of Andhra, it is the most important festival. As Sri Manohar Prabhakar puts it in his article in the Dacca Chronicle dated 19th January 1962 it is in the real sense a festival of the harvest. Every village flourishes with heaps of corn, pots of milk, blossoming flowers, fruits and vegetables. Everything will be in plenty. One and all hail this festival as the symbol of affluence with joy and exuberance. In this district this is not a greatly looked for festival. It is given a very ordinary place and is observed only for a day on the 14th January when vayanams are given to Brahmin women. Vayanam includes new earthen vessels and all new agricultural produce such as fruits, grain, tamarind, jaggery, sugarcane along with pasupu and kumkum. Sweets prepared in the houses are offered to Gods. This is a simple festival mostly confined to women.

17. Bhīṣma Ekadasi, is celebrated by a very few Brahmins on Magha Suddha Ekadasi (January–February).

It has its source in the primitive institutions of the Hindus, of which the worship of the pitrus, the patriarchs of progenitors, the Diti Manes, constituted an important element. This day is dedicated to Bhishma¹, the son of Ganga and great uncle of the Pandava and Kaurava princes, who was killed in the course of the great war between the Pandavas and the Kurus, and dying childless left no descendant in the direct line on whom it was incumbent to offer him funeral honours. In order to supply this defect persons in general are enjoined to make libations of water on this day to his spirit and to offer him sesame seeds and boiled rice. The act expiates the sin of a whole year. One of its peculiarities is that it is to be observed by persons of all the four original castes. The intention of the rite as now understood is expressed in the mantras uttered at the time of presenting the offerings 'I present this water to the childless hero Bhishma. May Bhishma, the son of Santhanu, the speaker of truth, the subjugator of his passions obtain by this water the oblations due by sons and grandsons.' After his defeat by Arjuna, he waited till Magha Suddha Ekadasi and died on this day after the Makara Sankranti called Uttarayana punya-kalam. Brahmins observe fasting, perform pūja to Bhishma and break their fast on Dwadasi with parani, a feast. This is unknown in rural parts.

18. Mahasivaratri² — falls on the fourteenth day of the waning moon in Magham (January-February).

¹ Bhishma was a great general and philosopher. Devotion to truth and duty, self-restraint and self-sacrifice, were all illustrated by him throughout his long life in a manner almost unparalleled in the History of India. His father fell in love with the daughter of a fisherman, who would not give her in marriage till he was assured of her issue from the King succeeding to the kingdom. Bhishma having come to know of his father's attachment for the girl went to her father and not only renounced his own claim to the throne, but by taking a vow of life-long celibacy cut off his line of offspring, saying that even dying childless he would attain heaven. So firm was his attachment to the vow that when on his step-brothers' death, no male child was left in the family and he was earnestly solicited by even his step-mother to marry and rule the kingdom he replied, "I can renounce the empire of heaven but truth I shall never renounce." Lying on his death-bed in the battle field of Kurukshetra he gave advice to the Pandavas upon the duties of kings, upon philosophical and social problems and upon questions of policy, of the art of war, the means of attaining salvation, etc.

² We dive into the ethical, metaphysical and allegorical lesson and import of the Mahasivaratri Vrata. It will not be out of place for us to begin with a bird's eye glance into the historical incident associated with this great Vrata. It is briefly as follows:

A hunter at Kasi goes into the forest on hunting and on his way back sinks into deep sleep (owing to sheer physical exhaustion) under a tree and wakes therefrom to find the sun has set already. In tense and awe-inspiring darkness envelops the whole forest, no ray of light enters it to pierce the darkness and show him his way home, but the forest night is vigorously alive and resounds with the roarings of lions, tigers and other wild quadrupeds. It is impossible to think of returning home and he, therefore, decides to ascend the tree and pass the night on that brittle perch, which, however, unsafe seemed safer at any rate than terra firma. Fortunately for him five happy co-incidences combine for his happiness and they are (i) that is the Mahasivaratri night, (ii) that is the bilwa tree which he has climbed, (iii) that an ancient Sivalinga is just below him, (iv) that owing to his having come out early at morn and stayed out all the time he has not eaten even a single morsel of food, and (v) that it being the Sasiruhu (dew season) the bilwa leaves which are wetted by the seasonal dew and which (owing to his frequent changing of his uncomfortable posture) are displaced from their setting, fall continually all the night through on the Sivalinga beneath.

In other words the hunter has unwittingly observed all the requirements of the Mahasivaratri vrata including the fasting, the all-night vigil and the bilwarchana (worship with bilwa leaves) and Lo! and behold. We find Bhagwan Sri Sankara pouring forth His grace on the hunter, purging him of all his sins innumerable and giving him salvation.

The story is a long and beautiful one, pathetic in its setting and soul-stirring in its descriptions. This bare skeleton summary of it will, however, suffice for our present purpose.

Proceed we now to a brief study of the inner, spiritual, allegorical and symbolical significance of this maha vrata. But in order to unravel and understand its inner secret it is necessary that we should analyse the compound-word Sivaratri vrata into its three component parts: i.e., ratri, Siva and vrata of each separately and then synthesise them again together. Along therewith, we shall of course have also to consider the sadhana (means required for) and phal (the result) of the vrata.

That changeless being in whom all the world rests is Siva or He who destroys all evils, ignorance and sorrows and is the blissful one. He is omnipresent, omniscient and omnipotent. Ratri is to give and means that which gives peace and happiness. In the present instance ratri does not mean physical night but symbolises the withdrawing by the sadhaka (aspirant on the ladder of spiritual progress) of all his senses, his mind and his intellect nay, his whole being away from all the follies and the distractions, the snares and the delusions of the more sensual world around him and his in-drawing of himself into the supreme self within.

The idea behind the vigil prescribed is thus not mechanical one of physical awakeness but of our keeping constant and vigilant watch over ourselves (i.e., our misleading mind and straying senses) and our keeping absolutely and vigilantly awake and alive to the paramatma thatwa (the inner reality, the supreme self within) which we generally sleep over or are not fully alive and awake to.

Upavasa does not mean mere physical fasting. It also means turning our senses and mind away from their bahirmukha vritti (i.e., their external sense-ward tendency) and making them antharmukha (turned inwards, i.e., towards the supreme soul within) we really perform or, in other words dwell spiritually and intellectually God-ward upavasa thus involves not a mere physical fasting but also the mental turning of ourselves towards God.

Amavasya grammatically means dwelling, i.e., dwelling of the sun and moon together. On the spiritual plane, however, the sun and the moon symbolise the paramatma and the jeevatma (the universal soul and the individual soul) respectively. Amavasya means the samadhi yoga stage wherein the jeeva has become one with the paramatma and there

This, in the estimation of the followers of Siva, is the most sacred of all their observances, expiating all sins and securing the attainment of all desires during life and union with Siva or final emancipation after death. The festival is said to have been enjoined by Siva Himself who declared to his consort Uma that the fourteenth of the dark half of Magham if observed in honour of Him should be destructive of the consequences of all sins and should confer final liberation. The three essential observances on this day are fasting during the whole tithi or lunar day, holding a vigil and worshipping the Linga during the night. After bathing in the morning the worshipper recites his sankalpa or pledges himself to perform the worship. He then recites special mantrams (holy texts) and offers an arghya (oblation) after which he goes through the matrika-nyasa, a set of gesticulations accompanied by short prayers. The repetition of nyasa (i.e., touching parts of the body while repeating certain mantras) accompanies every offering made to the Linga, they are fruits, flowers and incense and lights during the whole ceremony. The Linga is to be propitiated with different articles in each watch of the night on which the vigil is held. Firstly, the Linga is bathed in milk. Incense, fruits, flowers and articles of food, boiled rice and sometimes even dressed flesh, are offered with the repetition of mantras. Secondly, it is bathed in curds. Third time it is bathed in ghee. In the fourth watch the Linga is bathed in honey. Brahmans are entertained and presents are made to him. Women as well as men perform this vrata.

All Hindus except Vaishnavites observe this festival. There is not much difference in the observance of this festival by the several sub-communities. On Magha Bahula Chaturdasi, devotees fast the whole day, go to Siva temple for abhishekam, worship and offer cocoanut, fruits, panakam and janneim. They observe jagarana (keeping awake the whole night) attend the pujana kalakshepam, Harikathas or dramas with Saiva themes. The next morning they break their fast after a bath and puja. During the second day also they desist from sleep. One general practice is that this festival is observed not at their residences but at holy places, such as Srisailem, Mahanandi, Kalahasti, etc., at times hundreds of miles away from home with belief that those places are further sanctified during the period by the presence of Devatas that visit the centres to worship the presiding deity.

19 Kamadahanam and 20 Holī—As in other districts of Andhra Pradesh, these two festivals are clubbed together in this district. In other districts it commences on Phalguna Suddha Tirodasi and concludes on Bahula Padyami (February-March). But in this district it is a sixteen day affair.

One legend which is current is that Manmadha¹ was burnt to ashes by the fire from the third eye of Lord Siva who in his wrath opened it for having been disturbed in His penance. This extreme sacrifice was made by Manmadha at the behest of his father Lord Vishnu in order to save devatas from akshasa Tarakasura who could be killed only by the son born to Lord Esvara and Parvati. Manmadha disturbed the penance so that Lord Siva could marry Parvati.

According to Vaishnava Puranas, it was the anniversary of a great feat of heroism which Krishna performed by destroying a she-demon variously named Sankhashudha, Horn, Holī, Holika, Medha and Dhundha. The most probable supposition, is the actual experience of absolute Monism, oneness of God the individual soul and the whole Universe. Krishna Bahula Chaturdasi night is prescribed because the jeeva has withdrawn himself into the Lord but is not yet so completely absorbed and merged as to lose his individual consciousness, where no further sadhana is left or even possible. This is the subha muhoort (the auspicious moment) for stropasana which can lead us to Amavasya or the samadhiyoga.

To sum up, recapitulate and conclude, the hunter of the narrative, there is jeeva (the individual soul) who goes out on his incessant quest after sensual enjoyments but, tired and sick and sore and disgusted with his unending travel and vain search for real and lasting happiness through sense enjoyments falls asleep to them or withdraws himself from the fasts absolutely (i.e., shuns sensuality, materialism and bestiality altogether) wakes up to realise the character of forest darkness of agnana (ignorance) which envelops him on all sides, seeks protection therefrom and its terrors by climbing the tree of jnana sadhana, keeps vigil all through i.e., is always on his guard against succumbing any more to the snares and temptations of the flesh and senses and performs perpetual puja worship of the Anantharyami Lord of the Universe and thereby attains the oneness with God which, consciously or unconsciously, is the one ultimate inner wish of, and hearts innermost desire of every jeeva (individual soul) in the whole Universe. Such are the allegorical lessons of Mahasivaratri. —Article from Bhavan's Journal, 4th March 1962 on Mahasivaratri and its significance by H. H. Sri Bharati Krishna Teertha of Puri.

however, is that it was set apart to celebrate the return of spring upon both the animate and inanimate creation, and to express the feelings spread by the season and the delight which the revival of nature sent forth. The festival dates from Vedic times. According to a legend Holika was the name of a she-demon who used to devour children that were supplied to her by turns from each family in the places where she held sway. It so happened that one day, an old woman's only grandson was to be offered as victim and while she was lamenting for her misfortune a holy mendicant hearing the cause of her sorrow thought for a while and advised that if Holika could be made to hear vile and obscene expressions she can be killed for she was destined to die that way only. The whole village took this holy man at his word and when Holika came for her prey next day she was met by such a chorus of vile and filthy abuse that she dropped dead as prophesied. This event is supposed to be commemorated by the festival and the obscene language used by some youths generally during the Holi festival is believed to have originated from this legend.

This is observed by all the Hindus irrespective of their economic status. The main function held on Purnima is called Kamanna Purnama or Kamanna Panduga. An earthen image of a female is placed in the centre of the pit and some kind of puya is performed. Firewood, etc., collected in the town is placed all round the image. A picture of Kama and Manmadha, son of Lord Vishnu disturbing the penance of Lord Siva, is taken in procession and later burnt in the pit. Burnt sticks are taken home and oil lamps are lit with it. Vasanam is celebrated on a small scale. Ryots remove the ash from the pit and use it for crops particularly vegetables with the belief that it is a good insecticide.

21. Beerappa Panduga—Beerappa is the family God of Kuruvas in Andhra, Karnataka and Maharashtra. The image of the deity is a formless stone and at times it may also be in human form. In Andhra Beerappa festival is celebrated in Anantapur District by Kuruvas and Gollas. Other non-Brahmin communities also celebrate this festival. The festival is of importance and there is no fixed date for its observance and it is not incumbent to celebrate it in all places annually. The celebrations are held in March and the observance in different places on different dates makes the festival more conspicuous on account of the increased size of the congregation formed not only of the local people but also people from neighbouring areas of the district where the festival is not celebrated during the same period. It is a special occasion to invite friends and relatives from other places. Almost all places have Beerappa temples, where they are not built, the house of a Beerla with priestly status takes the place of the temple. On the first day Lingams (formless stones) three or five in number are worshipped on the river or tank bed or on the edge of a well and brought to the temple with music and dance. They are enshrined in the temple for worship during the festival period. The duration of the festival is for about a week. Animals are sacrificed and the mutton of the animals forms the chief menu. Jyothulu and bonalu are the important rituals. On a convenient day during the festival period, Kuruvas, Gollas and Sales carry jyothulu or bonalu on their heads. Jyothulu are earthen oil lamps and bonalu is cooked rice in decorated earthen pots. Dances, songs, etc., are the entertainments.

COMMON MUSLIM FESTIVALS

1. Ramzan is observed during the ninth month of the Muslim year viz., Ramzan (February-March). Prophet Mohammad, while he was doing penance in Gharebwera (a cave) in Mecca at his fortieth year, is believed to have acquired Quran sent by Allah through Gabriel. The observance of this month is one of the five cardinal practices in Islam and express commands regarding it are given in the Quran.

Throughout the entire month Muslims commence their fast at 4-30 a.m. to break it only after sunset. All luxuries and also such habits as smoking, chewing and snuffing are avoided during this period and a complete fast during day time is observed. The observance of fast is so strict that during that period some orthodox Muslims do not even swallow their own saliva. During the nights Mouly es deliver lectures on Islam. In addition to Isha (the night prayer) additional prayer namely ta-a-vi (20 rukhs) is offered and a part of the holy book, Quran is recited. On hade iath or the "best night" (shab-e-khader) which falls on the 26th or 27th day according as the month consists of 29 or 30 days recitation of the holy book is completed. On the badz iath all keep awake till 4 a.m. when the reading of Quran will be completed and sweets are distributed. The fast is broken in the night at home.

by some and with a common dinner from a common plate in the mosque by several. The last day is khudba day i.e., 1st day of Shawwal on which the observance culminates with great pomp and show. All wear new clothes and each member in the well-to-do family distributes among the poor 1½ measures of wheat or rice or cholam to enable the poor also to participate in the common namaz. They go for the namaz to idgah (open place where a wall is constructed on a raised platform on the western outskirts of the village or town). One distinguishing feature at the time of namaz is that the rich and the poor stand together in a row shedding the cloak of social status. When the Muslims in a village are too few to form a congregation or poor and lack in culture to have an idgah to conduct namaz at their own place they go to the neighbouring village and join the congregational namaz. The fast is not sometimes observed by those who may have to attend to the daily duties in the office, field, or shop etc., though their non-observance of ioja is sinful in the eyes of the Shariyat (Religious law). But the namaz at the idgah is seldom missed by any one. The procession to idgah is by one route and they return by another, so that the beggars that line up the route on both sides, might have the benefit of the charity of the rich.

2. Bakrid (The cow feast) is also called Id-i-Quaban (the feast of sacrifice) and Id-ul-Kabir or Bar-i-Id (the great feast). It is celebrated on the 10th day of Zilhaj (April-May) and is part of the rites of the Mecca pilgrimage. It is observed in all parts of Islam, both as a day of sacrifice and as a great festival. It is founded on command in the Quran, Chapter XXII, verses 33-38. Two of the verses are “Ye may obtain advantages from the cattle upto the set time for slaying them, then the place for sacrificing them is at the ancient house. By no means can their flesh reach unto God, neither their blood, but piety on your part reacheth Him. Thus hath He subjected them to you that Ye magnify God for his guidance, moreover announce glad tidings to those who do good deeds.”¹

The legend goes that before the birth of Prophet Mohammad, there was Ibrahim (Abraham) a prophet who condemned polytheism and animal sacrifice before images. It is he that constructed Kaba. He beheaded the minor idols secretly, placed the sword in the hand of the presiding deity and proclaimed that the crime was committed by the deity itself. The enraged mob threw him into the fire but the angels and God saved him. God commanded that he should sacrifice his only son Ismail, begot at the ripe age of eighty. Though Satan tried to dissuade him, Ibrahim executed the Lord's command. However, it was only a test and his son was restored to life. An orthodox version is that God desired Ibrahim to sacrifice to him the best he loved. The best he loved was his youngest son Ismail or Ishmail who was made to prostrate blind-folded Ibrahim with his eyes covered, repeating the words Bismillahi Allah-Ho-Akbar (with the name of God who is great) drew the sword across his neck. In the meanwhile, however, the archangel Gabriel snatching Ismail from underneath the blade, substituted a broad tailed sheep in his stead. Abraham unfolding his eyes observed to his surprise and joy the sheep slain and his son standing behind. God ordained that a cow (or a bull) or a sheep or a goat be sacrificed in his place. Animal sacrifice appears to have come into vogue from then.

In commemoration of this sacrifice, Bakrid is observed on the tenth day in the Muslim month of Zilhaj (April-May). On that day the Muslims go to Idgah (an open place where a wall is constructed on a raised platform on the western outskirts of the village or town), without having their breakfast as a mark of respect to Ismail and offer namaz (prayer). It is believed that the deer in the forest stands on one leg without even feeding its young one till the namaz is over. Therefore, the namaz is performed early even before taking breakfast. Within three days, the head of the family takes a sheep or cow or a goat and turning its head towards Mecca, says

“In the name of the great God verily my prayers, my sacrifice, my life, my death, belong to God, the Lord of the worlds. He has no partners that is what I am bidden, for I am first of those who are resigned.” “And then he slays the animal. The flesh of the animal is divided into three portions, one-third being given to relations, one third to the poor and the remaining third reserved for the family. It is considered highly meritorious to sacrifice one animal for each member of the family, but as that would involve an expenditure few could bear, it is allowable to sacrifice one victim for the household. In extreme cases, men may combine together and make one sacrifice for all, but the number of persons so combining must not exceed seventy. Some authorities limit the number to seven.”²

² Ibid, p 103

The skin of the sacrificed animal should be sold and the money thus got distributed among the poor. Quite apart from its religious ceremonies, the festival is observed as a great occasion of rejoicing Chappaties (wheat bread), sweets and bowls of khuma are the only preparations for the dinner. Rice is not cooked generally. Presentations are made to the youngsters.

For the subsequent four days three tahjirs are recited after every namaz (prayer) in His praise for the mercy shown in restoring Ismail to life. Rich persons give alms to the poor.

3 Moharram—

"The name of the first month of the Muslim year is also the name given to the first ten days of the month observed by the Shi'ahs in commemoration of the martyrdom of Hussain, the second son of Fatimah, the Prophet's daughter, by Ali. A short account of this tragic event is necessary to understand the quaint ceremonies which are observed on this festival. Yazid, who succeeded his father Muawiyah in the year 60 A.H. was a drunkard and a debauchee. The people of Kufah, which was the home of theologians and priests in those days, were scandalized and he in return treated them with much contempt. At this time Hussain was residing at Mecca. He had never taken the oath of allegiance to Muawiyah or to Yazid, and so now the people of Kufah begged him to come and promised to espouse his cause if only he would pronounce the deposition of Yazid and take away the Caliphate from the house of Umayyad. The friends of Hussain vain urged that the people of Kufah were a fickle lot and that they could if they wished, revolt against Yazid without his help. Hussain accepted the call and started for Kufah with his family and a small escort of horsemen and one hundred infantry. But meanwhile Yazid sent the Governor of Basrah to obstruct the way and Hussain on the plains of Karbala found his progress arrested by a force of 3,000 men. The people of Kufah gave no aid. Submission or death was the alternative for him. He asked his followers that those who wished to go, could do so. But they refused to leave him saying what excuse they would give to his grandfather on the day of judgment, if they abandoned him? One by one the little band fell, and at last Hussain and his little son, a mere infant, alone remained. Hussain sat on the ground. Not one of the enemy seemed to dare touch him. He took the little lad up in his arms, a chance arrow pierced the child's ear and he died at once. Hussain placed the corpse on the ground saying "We come from God and we return to Him. O God, give me strength to bear these misfortunes." When as he bent to drink, an arrow struck him in the mouth. Encouraged by this, the enemy rushed on him and speedily put an end to his life. The plain of Karbala is now a place of sacred pilgrimage to Shi'ahs, and the sad event which took place there is kept alive in the memories by the annual celebration of the Moharram."¹

Hussain's brother Hassan was beheaded while he was deeply engaged in namaz.

Strictly speaking this is no occasion for festivity and joy. In fact several pious Shi'ah and Sunni Muslims observe fast, recite the Quran at home during the ten days and the tenth day is observed as ashurah (mourning day). It is the Muslim belief that the future khamath (destruction of the world) will be on a Friday of this ten days period of Moharram. The Shi'ahs, a sub-community of Islam, observe this as an occasion of immense pain and sorrow. They weep and wail beating their breasts during these ten days. Cots are upturned, mats are wound up and the bare floor is made the sleeping place during the period. They wear only black clothes. They perambulate the streets with a flag expressing their sorrow, recounting the activities of the departed heroes Hassan and Hussain and calling out their names. The highly orthodox Shi'ahs condemn even the processions. They consider the two heroes equal to Prophet Himself.

"Some days previous to the festival, the imbarah (house of Imam), also called ashur khanah (ten-day house) is prepared. As soon as the new moon appears, the people gather together in the various imbarahs and offer fatihahs over some sherbet or some sugar in the name of Hussain. The fatihah concludes thus 'O God, grant the reward of this to the soul of Hussain.' The sherbet and sugar are then distributed. The imbarah is generally a temporary structure or some large hall fitted up for the occasion. The alams or standards which are commonly made of copper, and brass though occasionally of gold or silver, are placed against the walls. The usual standard is that of a hand placed on a pole. This is emblematic of the five members, (the Prophet Himself, Ali, Fatimah, Hassan and Hussain) who compose the family of the Prophet, and is the special standard of the Shi'ahs."²

For the first six days nothing else takes place. From seventh to ninth day they are taken out in procession in the streets. Fires are kindled in open spaces and the people both old and young fence across the fire and jump about calling out "Hussain! Hassan!"³ The three days are enjoyed with fancy dresses of tigers, bears, etc., and mimicry.

Both Hindus and Muslims go to the imambara for offering fatihs to alams. On the evening before the tenth day which according to the Muslim mode of computing time is the tenth night, all the taziyahs and the alams are taken out in procession. It is a scene of great confusion, for men and boys disguised in all sorts of quaint get up run about fencing and jumping. At a convenient hour in the night of the ninth day, burning cinders are levelled in the pit in front of the ashur khanah and devotees both Muslims and Hindus, a few holding alams walk across the fire. Whatever the principle might be, the influence of the ten-day observance of Dasara with fire walking in several places is seen in the ten-day observances of Moharram. It is the carnival of the lower class Muslims and Hindus. On the following day after fatihs are read, the taziyahs and alams are taken away to the nearby river or tank or a well outside the town. There the immersion ceremony takes place, which is washing the peerlu in water and removing them from the poles on which they were kept mounted from the first day of the festival.

The butli (curd and cooked rice with condiments) brought from home is offered as fatihs at the river and distributed in small quantities to as many of those assembled as possible. After the immersion ceremony, the alams are wrapped in cloth and kept in ashur / hanahs for 3 days. Though non-vegetarian food is prohibited for 3 days, it is observed only for a day except by the Shias. Sherbeth is generally distributed. After the 3rd day the alams are taken home and kept in safe custody for the next Moharram.

In Medak District the festival goes by the name Peerla Panduga. There is communal concord in this district and Moharram is a common festival for the Muslims and Hindus. There are villages who maintain at least the family of the mujavar in order that he may be of service to them for this annual festival. Several Hindus take advance vows of fire-walking to get over troubles for themselves or their cattle and fulfil them after fasting the whole day.

4. M'lad-Un-Nabi is observed by all Muslims on the twelfth day of the month Rabi-ul-Awwal (July-August), in commemoration of the death of Prophet Mohammed.

The story goes that being an orphan Mohammed was fed by Halima, a poor woman, with her milk and when he grew up he was tending the sheep along with the son of Halima. Even as a baby he refused the milk from the right breast of Halima which he left it to her son. One day Gabriel cut the chest of Mohammed, washed the heart with sacred water and prepared him to be a prophet and a reformer of the world. He performed penance and got Quran from God through Gabriel. He preached that Almighty is one and as a consequence had to escape from Mecca to Madina where he acquired 330 disciples in the first instance. He spread his Gospel, gradually regained Mecca and passed away in the year 1775 on the twelfth day of Rabi-ul-Awwal. On this day food is cooked and after fatihs have been read over it, it is distributed to the poor. Both in private houses and mosques, meetings are held at which the story of the birth, miracles and death of the prophet are recited. They keep awake throughout the night and namaz is performed. Quran is recited in mosques during which period of moustache (often a single hair of it and the piece of black blanket) are removed slowly from the box in which they are preserved and are shown to the gathering by the kazi. This is done only in big towns. Relatives are entertained to a good feast.

5. Peer-E-Dastagir is celebrated on the eleventh day of the fourth month re, Rabi-us-Sani (August-September) by the Sunnies in honour of the saint Abdul Khadar Jeelani or Geelani. His tomb stands at Baghdad and is visited by Sunni Muslims and some non-Muslims as well. This is an occasion of his birthday celebration. In his name a green flag is taken in procession to the accompaniment of music and is finally erected on a platform specially constructed for the purpose in places where the Sunnies are in a majority. In other places the flag is fixed on a margosa tree near the entrance to the place. This is done with the belief that a flag of Peer-e-Dastagir who was a great saint would protect the place warding off all epidemics and foul play of Satan. Just as in Moharram it is a very happy occasion though for a single night. In rural parts of Medak District it is an interesting sight to witness the vast crowd of Hindus with a handful of Muslims moving together in a procession with the green flag flying above and music playing in front, practically the entire cost being contributed by the leading Hindu community of the village concerned. In towns, a few orthodox Muslims who are educated commence 10 days earlier reading the life and other holy books on Islam and conclude the festival with poor feeding on a small scale whether there is a procession or not. Several miracles are attributed to the credit of the great saint. At the earlier stages of his life he converted a gang of robbers by telling them how much of money he had with him and where he had kept it. When the robbers questioned him why he revealed the fact while there was an opportunity to save his money, he replied that normally it was a great sin to utter a lie and that it would be a greater in his case as he had promised his mother at the time of leaving him and receiving her blessings not to utter a lie. The gang of robbers reformed themselves and became a group of his disciples.

6 Shab-E-Barat or Night of Record—This festival is held on the night of the fourteenth of the eighth month, i.e., Shalan (December-January) and it is believed that the duties of the men for the ensuing year are recorded. The whole night is spent either in prayer or in recitation of Quran in a happy and pleasant mood with illuminations and display of fire works. We find in these celebrations the influence of Deepavali celebrations conducted by the Hindus with great mirth and joy extravagantly indulging in fire works. This is a common festival among Muslims though the celebration is confined to a few rich and educated Muslims of the towns.

COMMON CHRISTIAN FESTIVALS

1 The New Year's Day—The 1st of January is celebrated as the New Year's Day by all Christians. Celebrations commence an hour or two before the actual birth of the New Year. Between 10 and 11 O'clock on the night of the 31st December of the preceding year there is the 'Watch Night' service in churches. The function commences with the distribution of sweets to the assembly. A speech is delivered about the closing year. Exactly at 12 O'clock in the midnight a speech is delivered ushering in the New Year. Songs about the coming year, about the glory of God, in praise of Christ and prayer for His blessings are sung individually and in chorus. At about 00-30 hrs the function concludes by a service and mutual exchange of greetings for the New Year by those assembled there. At 5-30 hours, in the morning of the New Year's day each family conducts service in the house. Prayers are offered for the benefits of the previous year and for blessings in the ensuing year. After bath and wearing of new clothes, greeting cards, gifts and sweets are distributed to friends and relatives. Church service between 9 and 11 a.m. is attended by all. Dedication of the Biblical names by the pastor to the new born babies and special prayers for the extension of the Kingdom of Christ brings the function to a close.

At home each family exhibits the greetings and gifts such as toys, clothing, sweets, etc., received from friends and relatives on a table in the well-decorated hall of the house, cleaned and decorated. The day is one of rejoicing with choice sweetmeats and non-vegetarian dishes for dinner.

Besides contributing one-tenth of a month's income to the Church by all devoted Christians, special offerings are made to the Church for the extension of the Kingdom of Jesus Christ, i.e., for the mission of converting others into Christianity. The exchange of greetings is not confined to Christians alone. It is extended to all classes of educated people. The Christians distribute sweets to all their Hindu and Muslim friends in the locality.

For the recently converted uneducated Harijans of the country side, the New Year's Day has no special significance, unless the concerned pastor undertakes to hold the function of dedicating Biblical names to the converts here and there during the close of the year. In spite of these celebrations Christians do not attach much religious importance to this New Year's Day. There is a convention gaining ground both among the Catholics and the Protestants that there is no need to attach importance to 1st January as a New Year's Day. It may be observed, as any other Indian does, as the first day of the official calendar year. Along with the preparation and enjoyment of the time-honoured bhakshyam from the days of fore-fathers, all the functions of thanks giving for the closing year and prayers for the New Year, etc., can as well as be transferred to the Telugu New Year's Day by the Andhra, Karnataka and Maharashtra Christians now that we are an Independent Nation with a national calendar of our own.

2 Good Friday Jesus Christ was crucified in Jerusalem by the Jews on Friday and 'Good Friday' is celebrated to commemorate the day. It is a part of the celebration of the Easter and comes

1 Easter—The day the Christians celebrate Christ's rising from the dead is called Easter. It always comes off on a Sunday falling either in March or in April. The date depends on when the moon appears in full in those months. However, it can never be earlier than March, 22 nor later than April, 25.

To many, Easter means the coming of spring. In this season trees give out new leaves, seeds that have rested in the ground all winter send up leaves and flowers, month come out of their cocoons, birds build nests and lay eggs. For hundreds of years eggs have signified the awakening of life in spring. Christians colour Easter eggs and give them to their friends as a way of saying 'Spring is here' (The Golden Book of Encyclopedia—Book V, pages 443 by Bertha Morris Parker).

immediately before the Easter Sunday, Easter being the most joyous of Christian festivals observed* annually throughout the Christendom in commemoration of the resurrection of Jesus Christ on the first Sunday after the full moon following the vernal equinox. Though Easter Sunday is the central point in the observance of the events connected with Christ's death on a Friday and His resurrection on a Sunday, the ideal Easter season extends from Ash Wednesday, the first day of Lent to Whit Sunday which commemorates the day of Pente-cost. This period of the Easter cycle may be divided into 3 periods (1) The preparatory fast of the forty days of Lent, (2) The fifteen days beginning with the Sunday before and ending with the Sunday after Easter during which the ceremonies of the holy week and the services of the Octave of Easter are observed, (3) The octave of Easter during which the newly baptised wear their white garments and for the paschal season beginning at Easter and lasting till Whit Sunday. In Medak District fasting is observed for a week commencing from the 4th day preceding Good Friday upto Easter ve, the Sunday after Good Friday. This period is known as 'Lamentation period' or 'Passion week.' The religious-minded elders observe the fast very strictly and engage themselves in prayers. On Friday Church service is conducted from 11-00 hrs to 16-00 hrs when only 7 persons speak, the significance being that the Lord spoke only seven words from the cross before His death. Each speech is preceded and followed by a prayer. No true Christian fails to observe fast at least on that day. The Sunday following is Easter. Early in the morning at 5-00 hrs all the members of the Church start in procession from the Church to an open space preferably a grove. There they sing in praise of the Lord after which there is a sermon by a learned preacher. By 7-00 hrs they return home and get ready to attend the Church by 9-00 hrs. Roman Catholics, however, do not go in procession but attend their respective Churches, have service from 3 to 4 p. m., as Jesus is believed to have been crucified at 3-00 p. m. They observe jagarana on the night of Saturday previous to the Easter Sunday which they call 'Easter vigil'. Immediately after the service in the Church 'Lord's supper' is observed by those who believe in the resurrection of Jesus Christ. Bread and diluted wine in little quantities representing the flesh and blood of Jesus are taken by Christians. New born babies are brought to the Church and Christened with biblical names by the pastor. Nominally the members of the Christian family are baptised as a token of rebirth, affirming their belief in Christ. This is done by immersing the Christian in the water and taking him out by the pastor or some other Church authority chanting hymns. This is the practice with the majority of the Protestants who immerse the new convert not particularly in sacred or holy water as John the Baptist, baptised for the first time in the waters of the river Jordan. It signifies a spiritual turning away from sins and the entry into a new and purer life. A few of the Protestants and all the Catholics sprinkle holy water on the new converts before Baptism, after saying prayers over the water before it is sprinkled. Feasts are held and consumed in every house with friends and relatives.

3. Christmas is the birthday celebration of Jesus Christ. Though 25th is the birthday of Jesus, the celebrations commence on the night of 23rd December with the 'Christmas Candle Lighting Service'. The evening of 24th is called the 'Christmas Eve' and special prayers and services are held in Churches. In order to keep the children awake on the night of the 24th the parents tell them that 'Christmas father' visits them with presents. This 'Christmas father' or Santa Claus is an imaginary old person with a white flowing beard and a red snow suit who is believed to fill the children's stockings with Christmas presents by night. The children generally fall asleep by mid-night of the Christmas Eve, then the parents keep presents like sweets, balloons, toys, etc., in stockings and keep them under their beds or on the tables. In the morning the children are told that 'Christmas father' had come and left them presents. Even in the Church the eldest member is dressed like the 'Christmas father' and is made to wander about in the congregation, distributing sweets, etc., to the children from the stockings hung to a bamboo stick on his shoulder. On the night of 24th December, the members of the Church specially youngsters go around the town in groups singing Christmas carols to wake up the Christians and inviting them to church for the important celebration on 25th morning. Some of the Christian families receive such parties and offer them sweets and cakes. After the service in the church on the morning of the 25th they return home and spend the day in merriment exchanging greetings and inviting friends and relatives to participate in the Christmas dinner. The well-to-do Protestants prepare the 'Christmas tree' with canes and bamboos and decorate it with coloured paper, candles and a variety of coloured bulbs. Gifts and greetings received from friends and relatives are conspicuously exhibited on the 'Christmas tree'

The Roman Catholics do not have the Christmas tree but exhibit in a crib the articles of presentations, the statues of Babe Jesus, Mother Mary and foster father Joseph. Some figures of animals representing the stable are also kept to indicate the actual place of the birth of Lord Jesus.

Christmas is a common festival for all Christians in Medak District, whether rich or poor, in towns or villages. The well-to-do in the towns celebrate the festival in the manner detailed above. Even the poor on account of the close association with the rest in towns observe it with equal zeal though they cannot afford the costly dinners or exchange of sweets. The 'Christmas tree' is a luxury for them. For the uneducated Harijan converts of the village Christmas is, perhaps, a festival. Rich feasts of the year are held though they are not advanced enough to conceive the idea of a 'Christmas father' or 'Christmas tree'. But the missionaries and the local pastors are innovating several methods of conversion on the Christmas day. Processions singing songs in Telugu, door to door personal invitation to one and all of the place to take part in the procession, enacting of dramas of life and teachings of several of the Christian saints and arranging burrakathas and even harikathas about the saints are resorted to to support their Mission.
